THAT BOY.

The boy stood on our front door step,
Whence all but him had fled:
He rubbed his eyes and sadly wept
And this is what he said:

My Pa and Ma are now inside
"THE CONANT FURNITURE STORE,"
They ought to get their wants supplied
In half a day or more.

He called aloud "say, father, say,"
If I should starve to death.
But the father TRADING far away,
And the boy was wasting breath.

Yet beautiful and bright he stood,
And the salty tears again,
Though he tried to "brace up" all he could,
Ran down his cheek like rain.

Dear father, once again he cried,
If I may yet be lost
This "BED ROOM SUIT," his Pa replied,
I'll have at any cost.

He pulled his hair, the door he beat,
Impatient little John,
There were busy feet on Summit street
And the Electric cars rolled on.

Mother, he cried in accents wild,
Will you miss me when I'm dead?
She answered, Yes, and sweetly smiled,
We want a "FOLDING BED."

Then came a burst of thunder sound,
The boy, oh, where was he?
Back in the store he soon was found
Across his father's knee.

They came from near and far that day,
Our BARGAINS to enjoy
And all disliked to go away,
But that uneasy boy.

The Chrisman Bank Will Not Pay Five Cents on the Dollar.

Paris, Ill., Oct. 7.—Judge Eads, the receiver of the bank that failed at Chrisman last week, says:

"I have examined the individual accounts of the bank and find that the deposit subject to check amount to $81,000 and time certificates $7,000. The notes found in the safe amount to $11,000, of which $7,000 are worthless. The others are good but the makers claim they have made payments on them which are not credited. In the general accounts I find that a number of banks owe the Chrisman bank from $5,000 to $15,000. These accounts are incorrect, as for instance, in the case of Indianapolis, Standiford's books show that the Indiana bank owes them $13,000.

"I have received a draft from the Indiana bank for $17.58, which they claim squares their accounts.

"According to Standiford's books Bibo & Co. of this city owe them $15,000 and Bibo & Co. say they have lost over $20,000 by the failure.

"The books are in bad shape. In my opinion the bank will not pay 5 cents on the dollar."

SENSATION IN MANSFIELD.

One Man Attempts to Shoot Another.

Mansfield, Oct. 7.—At 6 o'clock last evening intense excitement was created on the street by an attempt at murder. George Burd, an iron molder, attempted to shoot Perry Hunt, a former resident and mail carrier of this city.

About two years ago Hunt eloped with Mrs. Burd, who afterwards returned to her husband and was forgiven.

A week ago Hunt put in an appearance here and, Burd alleges, began again to make advances to his wife. To-night the men met on Main street and Burd pulled a revolver to shoot the destroyer of his home, but he was pulled off before he could use it. Hunt is a married man and now lives in Chicago.

UNITED MINE WORKERS.

Organizing Forces Will Be Sent Into Disorganized Districts.

Columbus, Oct. 7.—The national executive board of the United Mine Workers of America has concluded its work in this city and in an official statement particular attention is given to the disorganized districts and to the demoralized condition of the miners in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Clay county, Indiana, Illinois and large portions of various other states, the inability to maintain prices there, etc. The board suggests that the organized miners should refrain from calling for the services of the national officers where it can possibly be avoided, so all available organizing forces can be sent into the disorganized districts.

MILLS TO THE DEMOCRATS.

Tariff Reform is Interesting the Voters This Fall.

Greenville, Oct. 7.—A grand democratic meeting was held here yesterday with an unusually creditable parade and appropriate display, addressed by Hon. R. Q. Mills of Texas.

The speaking took place on the fair grounds to an audience of about 3,000 representative and working democrats of the county, laboring men, alliance and grange combined. Everybody was well pleased and the meeting was a success. The remarks of the noted tariff reformer will have the desired effect.

The democracy of Darke county is getting in splendid working order and a splendid report is guaranteed. The speakers will remain here till to-morrow. Mr. Mills was serenaded at the Wagner house this evening. Hon. Thomas Cain, of New York, also made a short address.

THE BLAINE DIVORCE.

James G., Jr., Denies That He Deserted His Wife and Wants the Child.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Oct. 7.—The answer in the famous divorce suit of Marie Nevins Blaine v James G. Blaine, jr., was served upon Mrs. Blaine to-day. She asks for a decree of divorce and custody of the child and for suitable alimony. Mr. Blaine in his reply denies that he deserted his wife but that she deserted him. He pleads poverty, and urges that he has an income of but $2,000 a year which will cease the first of December next. He makes a plea for the custody of the child. There will probably be a hard fight for the child, who resembles his grandfather.

SMITH'S SUCCESSOR.

Balfour is Liable to Take His Place.

London, Oct. 7—William Henry Smith, who died yesterday, is said to be worth $10,000,000.

The Rt. Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, M. P. for East Manchester, and chief secretary for Ireland, will succeed the late Mr. Smith as conservative leader in the house of commons if the influence of the powerful Carlton club and the opinion of the Conservative party as a whole rules in the decision to be made by Lord Salisbury. On the other hand, if the negotiations now pending for a reconstruction of the cabinet, based on the absorption of the Liberal Unionists, are effected, the Rt. Hon. George J. Goschen, chancellor of the exchequer, will claim the leadership.

PARNELL IS DEAD.

Startling News From Over the Ocean.

Sudden and Unexpected End at Brighton.

All Ireland Excited by the Announcement.

The Last Hours of the Once Great Leader.

Taken Ill With a Chill on Friday He Went to Bed and Never Again Left It—Comment on His Demise.

London, Oct. 7.—Mr. Parnell died last night at Brighton.

The death of Mr. Parnell was the result of a chill, with which he was attacked last week. On Friday he was compelled to take to his bed, and his death occurred at Walsingham terrace, Brighton, at thirty minutes past eleven o'clock last night.

CHARLES STUART PARNELL.

The news has created the greatest excitement in this city and the bulletin boards in front of the newspaper offices are surrounded by crowds of people awaiting slow-coming details of this most unexpected event.

Telegrams are pouring in upon the late leader's friends in this city from all parts of Ireland urging them to promptly forward to that country ever scrap of news in connection with the death which can possibly be obtained.

On Friday evening, shortly after Mr. Parnell had been induced to retire to his bed, his condition became so grave that Mrs. Parnell and the attending physician deemed it advisable to summon additional medical advice.

Two other physicians were at once called in, but notwithstanding their efforts Mr. Parnell continued to grow steadily worse, and it soon became obvious that the once Irish leader was gradually sinking, and that death was but a question of a few days, perhaps hours.

Since late on the evening of Friday it appears to have been simply a matter of awaiting the arrival of the inevitable.

Mrs. Parnell, who has been completely devoted to her husband, refusing to leave his bedside for even an hour's rest, is utterly prostrated by the shock, and her physicians are somewhat apprehensive as to her condition.

Biographical.

Charles Stewart Parnell was born at Avondale, in County Wicklow, Ireland, in the year 1846. He was a descendant of the poet Parnell, and his family have been associated with parliamentary life for upwards of a century. His great grandfather, Sir John Parnell, was chancellor of the exchequer at the time of Grattan's parliament.

Sir Henry Parnell, grand uncle of Mr. Parnell, was a prominent member of the English parliament in the time of Lord Grey and Lord Melbourne, and was made Lord Congleton.

Mr. Parnell, whose mother is a daughter of Admiral Charles Stewart, a celebrated American naval officer, was educated at Cambridge university, dut did not take any degree. After a tour of America, he settled down on his property in Avondale.

On the death of John Martin, in 1875, Mr. Parnell stood for County Meath and was elected.

Mr. Parnell first took an active part in parliamentary affairs in the session of 1876, when in association with Mr. Biggar, he initiated what was known by the various names of the "obstructive" and the "active" policy.

He joined in the foundation of the Land League, and in October, 1879, he was elected its first president.

At the general election of 1880 he was elected for the city of Cork. He was elected in May, 1880, leader of the new party by 23 to 18 votes for Mr. Shaw. He took an active part in the land league agitation. After the land act was passed, Mr. Parnell was arrested in October, 1881, on a charge of intimidation and obstructing the working of that act. He was released in May, 1882. At the general election of 1885 he was re-elected for Cork.

Mr. Parnell formed an alliance with the liberals, and by the vote of the Irish party overthrew the former government of Lord Salisbury (January 26, 1886).

Mr. Parnell's name has since been prominently before the public in connection with the home rule proposals of Mr. Gladstone.

The proceedings of parliamentary commission which resulted in a victory for Mr. Parnell against the Times, and the exposure of the Pigott forgeries, the O'Shea divorce proceedings and Mr. Parnell's marriage, are matters fresh in the minds of all.

FRIEND AND FOE ALIKE

Cast Down by the Sudden Death of Parnell.

Dublin, Oct. 7.—No event of the last half century has so startled the people of this city as did the announcement at an early hour this morning of the death of Mr. Parnell at Brighton last night.

The bulletin boards conveyed the unexpected tidings in letters a foot long to the workmen hurrying to their various occupations. At the railway stations the news was posted in conspicuous places to catch the eyes of the incoming throngs from the suburban towns.

In front of the postoffice, the rotunda, Nelson's monument, and a score of prominent places along the great thoroughfare Sackville street, announcements of the death of the Irish leader confronted the profoundly affected crowds who gazed upon them. Men, women and children alike seemed to be stunned by the words which stared them in the face.

It was noticeable that no expression of political feeling was heard among the groups who everywhere gathered to discuss the death of the late Irish chieftain. From 8 o'clock this morning up to the present hour (1 p. m.) the telegraph offices, the office of the Freeman's Journal, and that of every other newspaper in the city, have swarmed with people of all classes and conditions, eagerly looking for some particulars of the taking off of the great leader.

Dispatches from Cork say that the news of the death of Mr. Parnell has caused a panic in that city. So absolutely unexpected was the announcement that at first it was received as a canard, but the confirmation of its truth came quickly crowding upon its heels.

The personal and political friends of the dead man are overwhelmed with grief, and those who loudly and hotly opposed him in life to-day maintain a dignified and respectful silence.

The death has come so suddenly upon the people of Cork that as yet nothing has been done there in the way of formal action in the matter.

Meantime the wires between Cork and Dublin and the cable between Ireland and England are loaded with dispatches of inquiry and sympathy.

THEY BROKE EVEN.

Great Race Between Pointer and Direct.

Anybody's Race Until the Foaming Horses Had Passed Under the Wire.

Terre Haute, Oct. 7.—The great pacing race was the event of the day yesterday.

At 5 o'clock the two pacers scored up for the word, Pointer having the pole. After several scores the word was given with Direct at Pointer's saddle. The position was maintained to the quarter in 35 seconds, on they went to the half in 1:09 1-4, and it was seen that Geers had mapped his campaign to beat the black stallion in the home stretch and that such was to Starr's satisfaction. As a double team they passed the three-quarters in 1:42, and then the drive began. The lash descended on the stallion and gamely he answered it. Pointer, as ever, was maintaining a slight lead, and answering every stroke of the stallion, held the beat safe, when within 150 feet of the wire, Starr with a magnificent drive rushed Direct with a terrific burst of speed onto him, carrying him off his feet and the heat was his. The last quarter having been done in 31 seconds, the last eighth in 13 1-2 seconds. Pools now sold: Direct $50, Pointer $40.

In the second heat Geers, knowing that he could not win the battle in the last quarter against the phenomenal speed burst held by Direct, changed his tactics, and in scoring brought Direct down to the wire at a heart-breaking gait. The word was given to a splendid start and locked they went to the quarter in 34 seconds, Pointer making Direct attend strictly to business; to the half in 1:07, and then the fight began. With every nerve drawn to its utmost tension, the game horses fought it out. Down the third quarter the pace was quickened to a killing pace, and victory could only be to the one that could live it through. No endeavor to save the horses for the final brush. The battle was on and was to be fought out—endurance and gameness would tell the tale. All was hazard. In 32 seconds they were to the third quarter. The lash then began to fall upon the stallion and the two drivers using every endeavor and art known to the profession, urged on the flying steeds. Slowly but surely Hal Pointer closed up on the stallion. At the distance stand he is at his neck, half way home he is even, and so they remain to within 50 feet of the wire, when Geers rallies Pointer and he goes under the wire, winner by a nose. Pandemonium broke loose. Cheer after cheer greeted the victor. The final heat will be paced to-day.

AT THE POINT OF DEATH.

Queen Liliuokalani in a Critical Condition.

Serious Complications Liable to Follow the Death of the Hawaiian Ruler.

San Francisco, Oct. 7.—The steamer Belgic brings most important news from the Hawaiian kingdom. The information is authentic, being prepared by one of the leading citizens of Honolulu.

Queen Liliuokalani is at the point of death. Her physician has pronounced her trouble organic disease of the heart, and her death may happen at any moment. The queen has been advised of the worst.

The death of the queen will bring about the most serious of political complications, and already wire pullers are at work to secure control of the islands in the interest of England. Honolulu papers dare not print one word of what is transpiring, but the people are in a great fever of excitement.

Americans in Honolulu will make a desperate attempt to prevent the islands from falling into British control. The father of the heir to the throne, who is an Englishman, will work to his utmost in the interests of the British. Americans will take advantage of any lapse of time to prevent Princess Kalulani from taking the throne. The natives are in sympathy with the Americans, and want either a republic or annexation with the United States.

The Hawaiians feel no loyalty toward their native ruler, who has foreign blood in her veins. The situation is so critical that the presence of two or three war ships from the United States is an absolute necessity. Queen dowager Kapiolani is also dangerously ill with paralysis, and may die at any moment. The English minister is the bosom friend of Mr. Cleghorn, the father of the heir to the throne, Princess Kalulani.

Americans have some knowledge of what is to be done, and are taking precaution to organize and secure arms sufficient to protect their rights. The general election is rapidly approaching, and excitement is at fever heat betwen rival political factions.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

Bellevue, O., Oct. 7.—(Special)—In attempting to cross the W. & L. E. railway track to-day Mr. Walter Martin, of Dayton, O., a moulder in the Ohio Cultivator works, of this place, was run over by an engine and had a leg cut off just below the knee. The accident may prove fatal.

Rev. George F. Smythe, of East Toledo, preached the sermon before the Northwestern convocation of the Episcopal diocese of Ohio, at Fostoria this week. Bishop Leonard was present.

LOWER TAXES THE CRY.

Workingmen Protest Against McKinleyism.

Labor Leader Valentine is Stumping for Campbell.

Hancock County in Line to Do Good Democratic Work—Ryan and Canary—General Politics.

Findlay, Oct. 7.—(Special)—The democrats of Hancock county are united, harmonious and confident of victory this fall. The county was up to the influx of oil men three or four years ago, reliably democratic, but the majority dwindled down as the Pennsylvania people became voters, until it vanished entirely, and a republican majority took its place.

Last year the county was carried by the republicans by a small majority but since that time matters have changed. The pig-headed protection which is defended and fathered by the republican party is not popular with the masses, and the local democratic leaders are certain that Gov. Campbell will have a handsome majority in old Hancock this year.

The candidacy of T. H. McConica for the state senate on the republican ticket is in many respects amusing. This man came here with the boomers in 1886, from Delaware, and so far as politics is concerned is a pronounced carpet-bagger. Since he has become a citizen of Hancock county he has been a standing candidate for everything that came along.

Besides holding several minor offices he was a candidate for representative two years ago, and was beaten by Brown, the democratic candidate.

It was alleged then that he was a remarkably popular man with the oil operators, but notwithstanding this, he was beaten nearly 200 votes by Brown, who conducted his campaign from a sick bed.

McConica has dabbled in oil and oil lands and now turns to politics. There is no doubt but that his nomination was dictated by John Sherman through his managers in the federal building at Toledo.

Sherman owned considerable real estate in Findlay and McConica was his agent. It is asserted that some time ago he was instrumental in securing the vacation of a plat in the portion of the city where Sherman's property was located in order that the Icicle might escape taxation.

He will not be elected. Whatever elements of strength he possesses are within his own party. No democrat will vote for him for any reason. Canary and Ryan will get more than the full democratic vote, and conservative democrats estimate that they will carry the county by a safe majority. Both of these gentlemen stand highly here. Senator Ryan's record in the senate is well known and absolutely no fault is found with it.

So far as Mr. Canary is concerned he has hosts of friends in Findlay and Hancock county, who will embrace the first opportunity they have ever had to vote for him. His ability is well known and he is considered pre-eminently the proper man to represent this district with the great counties of Lucas and Hancock, in the legislature.

Confident of Success.

Mr. S. D. Houpt, one of the democratic war horses, is confident of success.

"We will carry the county beyond a doubt," said he to the writer. "Everything is in our favor. Gov. Campbell has made a record that his party need not be ashamed of, and if the people of the state of Ohio do not re-elect him it will be evidence that they do not admire clean politics or a pure administration. His position on the great public questions is right and he stands to-day as the representative of the masses of the great commonwealth, as against McKinley, who represents the classes and therefore all the vicious legislation which they demand and receive, at the hands of the republican party.

"Mr. Houpt, is it your opinion that Gov. Campbell will carry Hancock county?"

"Most assuredly he will. His majority based on a conservative estimate, will range from 200 to 400."

"What are your reasons for this prediction?"

"Well, in the first place, Hancock county is democratic when it comes to questions which are national in their significance. The county has a large population of wage-earners who see that they are not protected by this boasted protection, but that in reality the law only enables their employers to pay such wages as they may choose to pay. Take for instance the flint glass and goblet factories. They are all now in a gigantic trust and it will dictate the wages to be paid the employes. They can fix the price of labor at just what they want, and if the men do not wish to work for that, they will shut down the factories and throw them out of work. All these glass barons are republicans, and in sympathy with the candidacy of McKinley. The new voting law will not permit these fellows to vote their employes like sheep as in former years, but they will vote as they please. The majority of this class of wage-workers in Hancock county are democrats."

"How will Ryan and Canary run?"

"They are well and favorably known and our people are satisfied to trust their affairs in their hands. Our county ticket is very strong and we will elect it in its entirety. James Huston, our candidate for representative, is a strong man, a prominent farmer residing in Amanda township, and absolutely clean in every respect. Christian Garber, the candidate for county commissioner, is likewise as good as, if not the best man, that could have been named for the place. Hancock county will speak out this year for tariff reform and democracy in tones that will not be misunderstood."

Auditor Metcalf.

Auditor Metcalf is another democrat who is sanguine of success this year.

"I place Campbell's majority in the county at from 100 to 300, and will not be far out of the way. The wage-workers of Hancock county are up in arms against the iniquitous McKinley bill and will assist in relegating its author to private life, or rather to keep him there. He represents the monied aristocracy of the country, and why any laboring man should vote for him is more than I can determine."

"How about the senatorial ticket?"

"Ryan and Canary will carry this county. I was at the Ottawa convention which nominated these gentlemen, and can say that we were satisfied. We went there having no particular candidate, but finally settled on Mr. Flatt. We had little hopes of nominating him, but came out of that convention united and enthusiastic for the election of Ryan and Canary. The latter gentleman is our neighbor, almost like one of our own people, and will get a big vote."

J. A. Valentine.

One of the most enthusiastic democrats encountered was Mr. J. A. Valentine, president of the Findlay Trades and Labor assembly, and state organizer for the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Valentine is now stumping the county for Campbell and lower taxes and makes votes wherever he goes, as he is a most convincing talker. He was asked how the glass workers stood on the question of tariff this year.

"They are nearly all for Campbell and low taxes. The men employed in the American flint and goblet works are nearly all democrats now, and largely so by reason of the issues brought up in the campaign. Wage workers are beginning to understand that protection does not protect them any more than it does the farmer. It does not fix the scale of wages, but operates directly in the interest of the manufacturer. We secure our wages only by organization. Were it not for this many of us would have hard work to keep the wolf from the door. What glass workers want is an open market and then the increased demand for wares will create a demand for labor, and wages must go up. As it is now we are simply at the mercy of the trusts, who can pay us what they like. If we don't like the pay we can quit."

"Mr. Valentine, do you know of any democratic wage earners who intend voting for McKinley?"

"No, sir, I do not. Why should they vote for McKinley? What is he but the champion of the trusts and combines, and the mouthpiece of the monopolist. What interests has he in common with the laboring man, except when he wants his vote? Our people understand the purposes of Maj. McKinley and will vote against him and his platform.

"He is making many untrue statements in his speeches throughout the state. Down at Steubenville the other day, he stated that since the tariff had been increased on pottery, the wages of men employed in potteries had been increased. This is not true. The result at Findlay, at least, has been directly the opposite. Last January Bell Brothers' pottery, in the Heck addition in this city, reduced the wages of its employes from 20 to 50 per cent. The men went out and are still out, refusing to work under the cut.

"McKinley is either not posted in regard to these matters, or else he is purposely misleading the people, and I am inclined to the latter belief. You can rest assured that Hancock county will give a substantial majority for Gov. Campbell, and I am of the opinion that he will be elected. He ought to be, for he has made an admirable governor, and has been true to the platform upon which he was elected two years ago."

County Recorder Baker.

County Recorder Baker thinks the county will give a democratic majority this year.

"The farmers are reading more this campaign than I have ever known them to, and the more they read the more they are convinced that McKinley and high protection will not do. Farmers must look for a wider market than the boasted home market, and can only find this by throwing down the barriers and going into the marts of the world.

"The people have been humbugged long enough by this bugaboo of home market, and will try something else. Our county ticket will be elected and Ryan and Canary will not be far behind Campbell. This is a good year for democracy, and with a proper understanding of the questions before them the people, neither farmers nor wage-earners can afford to vote for McKinley."

This seems to be the general sentiment among Findlay democrats, and there is not much doubt but that the sentiment is correct. Inquiry fails to develop anything but a united democracy, while hundreds of republicans who intend to vote for Campbell might be given. This is no hurrah campaign, but things are going along in the right direction and every time a republican thinks he is that much nearer the democratic candidate and the democratic platform.

School Enrollment.

There is a gain of 368 in the school enrollment in this city for September, over the same month last year, the total being 3,283. The increase over last year is about 800 for the entire year. This is conclusive evidence that Findlay is still moving upward, and these figures show that the city has gained about 4,000 in population since the census was taken.

Growing Interesting.

The prosecuting witness, G. W. Stephens, failed to appear yesterday in the trial in Justice Arford's court of Maggie Thompson for forging a note of $600 on N. J. Baker. The prisoner was discharged. Stephens & Co. took judgment against Baker yesterday for the amount of their claim. Baker now claims he will have the woman indicted for the forgery by the grand jury. The woman claims she will make Mr. Baker sorry if he does not settle the matter.

The Kibler Trial.

The trial of Jerome Kibler, one of the supposed robbers in the celebrated Oman case, is now on in common pleas court, before Judge Johnson. The state concluded its side of the case yesterday. The defense is bringing in a number of witnesses to impeach the testimony of the Oman family and trying to prove that Kibler was in the city at the time of the robbery. The verdict will be reached to-morrow.

Government Appointment.

E. J. Totten, a well-known politician, has received from the hands of Secretary of the Treasury Foster the portfolio as chief of immigration in the treasury department at a salary of $2,500 per annum. He will remove to Washington next month to take charge of his new position.

School Day.

This was school day at the county fair. The schools were dismissed and all given a chance to take in the big show. Addresses were delivered by Superintendent Zeller and President Latchaw, of Findlay college. Findlay has nearly 5,000 children of school age. Of course the little folks enjoyed the day.

DIED LIKE A MAN.

Eustasie Mendez Declines to Be Blindfolded.

Havana, Oct. 7.—Eustasie Mendez, the kidnaper who was arrested at Caibarien, and who was convicted and sentenced to death, was shot at La Cabana Castle, which is situated across the bay from the city of Havana. Mendez was a well known resident of Caibarien, and held the position of commandante of militia.

His execution took place at 7 o'clock in the morning. All approach to the part of the castle where he was to be shot except to the officials, was vigorously prohibited.

Mendez made a will in which he leaves $60,000 to be divided among his twelve children. The condemned man petitioned the officials to allow him to be shot without being blindfolded, as is usual in an execution of this kind, and his request was granted.

FOUND THEIR DEAD BODIES.

Paris, Tex., Oct. 7.—The dead bodies of Deputy Sheriff Bill Castor and a bartender were found lying in Ghio's saloon at Arthur City yesterday morning. The men were shot in the back, and death must have been instantaneous. Castor's body was found in bed, and that of the bartender lay behind the bar.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Erie, Pa., Oct. 7.—Hon. A. F. Bole, a prominent member of the Erie bar and a resident of Corry, committed suicide yesterday morning by shooting himself through the head. He was a brother of Hon. Wm. Bole, who failed for a large amount a year ago, and it is believed that weighed heavily upon the suicide's mind. Deceased had been mayor of Corry. He leaves a wife and one child.

KILLED BY A FALL.

Huntingdon, Pa., Oct. 7.—Daniel, the 15-year old son of Rev. A. L. Chilcoat, of Orbisonia, fell from a tree this morning a distance of 43 feet and was instantly killed. On learning of the fatality his mother became frenzied with grief, and it is believed her mind is permanently impaired.

GAVE UP HIS SECRET.

New Lisbon, O., Oct. 7.—Wm. Canfield has confessed having turned the switch which wrecked the limited train on the Pennsylvania at New Palestine, a few weeks ago, in which three men were killed. He says that he attempted to wreck the train to plunder it. He is now in jail here.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The secretary of the treasury has taken measures to have the United States represented at the approaching meeting of the international commission on emigration at Paris, October 22 to 24.

New York, Oct. 7.—A Chicago special says that Mrs. Archibald Brown, daughter of Chief Justice Fuller, is lying at the point of death with typhoid fever at her father's home in that city.

Kansas City, Oct. 7.—Snow began to fall here at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and continued for an hour. This is the first snowfall of the season.

TAKE PLATT OR TAMMANY

The New York Mugwump in a Bad Fix.

The Empire State Battle Gets Hotter Each Day.

Both Parties are Turning Every Trick Known to Politics in Order to Win at the Polls.

New York, Oct. 7.—The democrats are still playing a waiting game. Their state executive committee met and organized last week at the Hoffman house, but there is very little activity around their headquarters visible to the casual observer.

Candidate Flower has taken rooms at the same hotel, and is in daily communication with members of his campaign committee. He is said to be a good organizer. He demonstrated that fact in his campaign for congress a few years ago against William Waldorf Astor. When the votes were counted at the end of that contest Mr. Flower was found to have captured a good many republican ballots, besides holding the regular democratic vote of the district. A great many people thought that "boodle" did it, but Mr. Flower's friends now say that the result was due almost entirely to his "masterly ability as an organizer." It has always been asserted that Mr. Astor spent $2 to Mr. Flower's $1 in this contest. But the incident proves something of Mr. Flower's prowess as a campaigner.

In his fight with Mr. Astor Mr. Flower posed as a "man of the people." Much stress was laid on the charge that Mr. Astor was an "aristocrat." In this connection the publication of Mr. Flower's coat of arms, imported intact from England, is interesting as showing the changes that time brings around. Now, Mr. Flower has to answer to the charge of being an aristocrat himself. His possession of a coat of arm overcomes the tales of his barefooted boyhood. The republicans are making the most of Mr Flower's imported coat of arms. Copies of it have been scattered broadcast over the state.

The announcement of the members of the democratic campaign committee caused some surprise. The list includes the names of Daniel S. Lamont, Cord Meyer, and D. Cady Herrick, all classed as good Cleveland men; Hugh McLaughlin, of Brooklyn, and Commissioner Voorhis, of this city. Ex-Police Justice Maurice J. Power, the leader of the county democracy, was invited to take a place on the committee, but declined. In the selection of the executive committee Chairman Murphy has certainly made a commendable effort to harmonize all of the democratic elements. Mr. Power's refusal to serve, however, is significant. For two weeks the county democracy organization has been torn up over an attempt on the part of some of its members to get a resolution passed indorsing the democratic state ticket. Thus far the effort has not been successful, and the matter has been postponed in order to prevent unfavorable action. The "Countys" will nominate an anti-Tammany local ticket on the 13th, and it is expected at that time, if not before, that they will give a perfunctory indorsement of the democratic state ticket. But if Mr. Flower's election depended on the loyal support of the county democracy organization, his chances would be very slim indeed.

The republicans are not especially pleased at the apparent inactivity of the democrats. They are fearful that it means some surprise at the eleventh hour that will undo all of their hard work of the campaign.

Congressman Belden relented last week and has come out openly for Fassett. This, with a cable from Warner Miller urging all of his friends to support Fassett, completes the list. There is not a single republican of prominence in the state now occupying a hostile position toward their state ticket. This situation led Gen. Husted, the chairman of the republican state executive committee, to remark yesterday: "If we cannot win this year, with all of our forces working together, we might as well give up trying to carry New York."

How much will the loss of the world's fair cry hurt Mr. Fassett in this city is something the republican state committee would like to ascertain. Surface indications point to a good-sized deflection from Fassett in the upper part of the city known as Harlem. The fair was to have been located there and the residents all expected to get rich out of it. Their disappointment was keen and the democratic managers are shrewd enough to take advantage of it and keep the matter prominent. A big mass-meeting is to be held by the democrats on the site that had been selected for the world's fair, and the loss of the fair to this city will be the chief theme of the evening. There is a big republican vote in Harlem and its loss would seriously embarrass Mr. Fassett.

It is said that Mr. Fassett intends to wind up his campaign in Harlem, and will make a mighty effort to place the blame for the loss of the world's fair on Tammany.

When the subject of a site for the world's fair was under discussion, Mr. Depew said: "If New York loses the world's fair every man who is out of employment for the next two years, will ascribe it to that fact, and will hold the men or party responsible for it to a strict accountability."

The mugwump vote will not be cast as a unit for either Fassett of Flower. The Evening Post is leaning toward Fassett, and Harper's Weekly has come out squarely for him. The Times, on the other hand, is assisting Flower editorially, but has thrown open its new columns to independents, who wish to give reasons why they will support Fassett. The mugwump mind is certainly perplexed in choosing between Platt and Tammany. Probably Mr. Fassett will fare a little better at their hands than Mr. Flower.

The members of the republican state committee are lamenting the fact that they will have no United States marshals to help them in this city this year, except in two congressional districts, where special elections will be held to fill vacancies. They would like the United States marshals to help them supervise the registration in this city. They believe that they have more to fear from fraudulent registration here than anything else. "In 1888," said Candidate Fassett recently, "we had the assistance of the United States marshals, and fraudulent registration was kept down to a minimum. The Tammany managers knew that the deputy marshals were on the lookout, and that it was worth a good deal to us in holding them in check. We cannot have the deputy marshals this year, I am sorry to say, except in the two congressional districts where special elections are to be held, and it is going to be extremely difficult to prevent colonizing by Tammany. No one knows better than Tammany that we will not have deputy marshals to watch them, and of course they will make the most of it. If I could be sure of an honest registration in this city, I should have no doubt of my election."

The two congressional vacancies referred to by Mr. Fassett to be filled in this city are the districts represented by Mr. Flower and the late Gen. Spinola. Mr. Flower's district is located up town, where little colonization is ever practiced. Gen. Spinola's old district, however, is below Twenty-third street, where the colonizer is supposed to run riot. The republican managers are making arrangements to have special detectives watch the registration, but these men will have no official authority or power, and consequently will be of but little service.

This week the Brooklyn republicans will decide upon a candidate for mayor. Their hopes are centered upon William Ziegler, a gentleman who is said to possess a good many elements of strength. Mr. Ziegler can have the nomination if he will accept it. If Mayor Chapin is put up again by the democrats, as seems likely, the contest will be an interesting one. Chapin's reputation has suffered in the disclosures made last spring regarding the letting of the Brooklyn waterworks contract, although it is not thought that his personal integrity was impeached. This scandal was unquestionably a handicap to Mr. Chapin in his aspirations for the governorship, and it will no doubt do him some harm in the coming mayoralty contest. A close mayoralty fight in Brooklyn cannot be of much assistance to the democratic state ticket. In the present mood of the Chapin people they would be likely in that event to take care of their local candidate at the expense of Mr. Flower and his friends on the state ticket. Kings county in 1888 elected Mr. Harrison—that is, the gains made by the republicans there gave the state to Mr. Harrison.

Mr. Cleveland has been invited to speak for Mr. Flower, but it is not known yet whether he has accepted the invitation. Perhaps the interesting event that has just occurred in his family will prevent his taking an active part in the campaign.

Hill's loyalty to Flower is still being questioned in some quarters. It was certainly a knife or something very much like it that was flashed in one of the governor's recent speeches. He denounced the gentleman who defeated the passage of a bill before the legislature last winter reducing the legal rate of interest from 6 per cent. to 5 per cent. Mr. Flower, as Gov. Hill knew, was at the head of a delegation of New York bankers that visited Albany and protested against the passage of the bill. Mr. Flower's friends are unable to understand Hill's course in alluding to the matter now, especially as they say, that he notified his followers in the legislature not to let the bill come to him.

MUST PAY THEIR DEBTS.

A New Order of Things at Washington.

Foster Trying to Make His Clerks Live Like Men.

The Shameful State of Affairs Existing Among the Department Clerks Has Caused the Change to be Made.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The order just issued by Secretary Foster providing for the payment of the employes of the department every week instead of twice a month, as has been the custom, is intended to protect them against 10-per-cent.-a-month shavers.

Many of the employes of the government here are in debt to a greater or lesser extent to these blood-suckers, who are willing to run the risk of advancing them small sums of money without security at interest of 10 per cent. a month.

There are very few clerks who can go to any straight business man or firm and borrow $50 or $100 without security, though there be a reasonable certainty that not one out of five hundred would fail to meet the obligation.

Therefore, lending money to clerks has grown to be a very profitable business with certain brokers who are not afraid to take the risk. The profits on the loans are so great that an occasional loss makes no impression on the business.

Where the broker loses $100 on one clerk he makes $1,000 on the rest. If a clerk pays back the money borrowed the interest he pays on it usually amounts to two or three times the principal before he works himself up to the point of repudiating the debt.

The result is that the clerks pay dearly for any extravagance which has placed them in the hands of the blood-suckers. Once in a while a clerk, getting deeper into the toils, gives up to despair and kills himself or runs away to start life over again in some strange place, but such cases are rare.

The usual thing, that which hundreds of them are doing now, is to work on month after month, economizing that they may scrape together money enough to keep the interest paid, and, if possible, lessen the principal a little.

A debt of $100 incautiously contracted, with the expectation that it will soon be paid off, hangs over a clerk for years, the contribution of $10 a month to the broker, without ever lessening the debt, becoming a part of the regular expenditures.

There are very few clerks who have any part of their salary left three days after pay-day, and if they have any pressing need for money before the next pay-day comes, they may be driven to borrow. This is not so much because of extravagance as their having many people depending upon them, and they have to pay big rents and dress better than they would have to if they were working for the same wages in some business concern. It used to be the custom to pay clerks but once a month. Then there was a stretch of bustedness between pay-days and the brokerage business began. It was started first by employes who were better off than their fellows, lending money at high interest to the others. Perhaps the high interest was first put on to protect the possessor of the money from constant importunities for loans, but it paid so well that it soon became a matter of business, more profitable than drawing a government salary.

For a long time it was regarded as legitimate for a clerk to squeeze big interest out of his less fortunate brothers, and men who failed to pay up promptly were notified by their chiefs that longer delay would result in their dismissal. It got so that the two most pressing financial obligations of the clerks were to the usurer and to the collector of campaign funds. A failure in either obligation was followed by dismissal, while the butcher, the baker and the candlemaker stood a poor show and the wife had to do her own cooking. The matter got to be such an abuse that finally an order went out against usurers, and clerks found fleecing their fellows were dismissed, and the payments of the clerks were made more frequent—twice a month. Meanwhile, the men who had been lending the money had made enough to be independent, and having to resign they continued their business on the outside, still being protected in their collections by the rule of the department dismissing for debt.

It was only in recent years that the propriety of dismissing a clerk for not being prompt in his payments to usurers has been questioned and men who had paid in interest three times over the sum borrowed were dismissed for ceasing the regular monthly contributions.

Of recent years, however, there has been a war on the usurers, and while a wash-woman might be able to collect her bill from a delinquent clerk through his chief, the usurer has been generally given to understand that the department could not help him in his business. Recently when a usurer complained to the secretary that a clerk would not pay borrowed money and it was discovered that the clerk had already paid $260 interest on $100 and still owed $80, the secretary recommended the clerk to pay the $80 at his convenience, but to pay no more interest. To still further relieve the clerks there has been a custom in vogue for some time of permitting them to draw money between pay days occasionally upon the recommendation of the chief of division.

Mr. Foster's new order will do away with this and will permit all employes to draw their money every week. Whether they will be any richer because of this order is a question, but they may like it better to have a little money often. In this connection a circular has been issued from the department, the purpose of which states that the president has directed that debts contracted since appointment must be paid—following this is a repetition of the old-time circular, in which the clerks are informed that their domestic affairs, so far at least as relates to their liabilities, are of sufficient concern to the department to enlist the government on the side of the creditor to the extent of threatening the dismissal of clerks who were unable to pay their debts.

SPAIN AND PORTUGAL.

Madrid, Oct. 7.—The Spanish government is negotiating a treaty of commerce with Portugal. In this connection it is intimated that no future Spanish treaty will contain the favored-nation clause.

THE FARMERS OF OHIO.

They Have Reason to Do Some Thinking.

The Year's Good Crops is Not All They Require.

They Do Not Want to be Taxed to be Taxed to Death for the Benefit of the Rich Man and Will Protest This Fall.

Fostoria, Oct. 7.—(Special)—The broad fields of northwestern Ohio, the garden spot of the state, present at this season a most magnificent picture. The acres of corn now ripened and being gathered, the evidences which exist in various ways, of the immense crops of cereals which have just been harvested, the pasture lands dotted with cattle and sheep and the orchards bending with their load of fruit, are exterior evidences of a wonderful prosperity.

All this appears beautiful from a car window, but when one draws back the curtain and takes a peep at the inner temple, at the condition of the farmer as he finds himself, the picture is marred.

Let one of this class speak for himself and his brethren. He boarded the train at Pemberville, and when asked whether the farmers of Wood and Seneca counties were not rapidly laying up sufficient stores of this world's goods, he smiled in a sort of incredulous manner.

"It looks as if they ought to be, doesn't it? But an inspection of our pocketbooks and bank accounts would only reveal a part of the facts as they are.

"We can not, of course, complain of this year's crops, but they ought to continue for three or four years. Then with good prices we fellows who have not had the good fortune to own oil lands would be on our feet."

"Are the farmers of Wood and Seneca counties in debt to any extent?"

"Well, yes. The poor crops for a couple of years put many of us in bad shape. Now as an illustration llet me cite my own case. Five years ago I finished paying for my 40-acre farm and everything looking favorable I bought another 40 which adjoined me. I paid $2,200 for it, $500 cash and the remainder in four payments. Bad luck followed me and I have not since that time been able to even pay the interest on one of the amounts. Poor crops and high taxes kept me so poor that four years ago I was compelled to put a mortgage on the first 40-acre tract I owned in order to ease myself up and pay my debts. It will take several years of good crops to get me even."

This man was fairly well posted and knew that high taxes had something to do with his misfortunes, and his case is not an isolated one by any means. It is no wonder that even in the face of apparent prosperity the farmers of the country are poor, when the fact is made plain that they are taxed on their homes and everything they eat and wear with but few exceptions. It is an eloquent refutation of the doctrine that you can bring prosperity to a people by taxing them into and beyond the grave.

The fact of the matter is that like the wage-earner and the artisan in the city, the farmer has been McKinleyized and Shermanized and Forakerized until he does not know the blessings which follow the man who owes no man a cent.

The prospects for democracy in Seneca county this year are exceedingly bright. Harmony prevails, especially in this neck of the woods, and Gov. Campbell will carry the county by little less if not more than 1,000 majority.

Seneca is the most northern county in the Twenty-first senatorial district, but there are no signs here of opposition to the candidacy of Hon. W. C. Gear, the democratic nominee, and even republicans concede that he will be elected beyond the shadow of a doubt.

The democratic majority in the district is so large that nobody is certain that it has ever been correctly counted, running from 2,000 to 4,000. It will not fall off this year, but will be increased if anything.

In this town, the home of Secretary Foster, which very largely owes its prosperity and importance to Mr. Foster and his enterprise, democrats are in a minority, but those who may be found here are of the right sort.

A few days ago a permanent democratic club was formed, and will be the only rival of the Foster club, the republican organization. It is now in good working order, with a large membership, and will be of much service in disseminating democratic principles.

One of the best posted democrats in Fostoria is Mr. Charles F. Zahm, editor and proprietor of the Fostoria Daily Democrat.

"How big a majority will Gov. Campbell have in Seneca?" was the question fired at him.

Its a little early to offer any reasonable guess but in my opinion he will have at least a thousand majority. Gov Campbell stands well with the democrats of Seneca county, as he does , in fact, with democrats all over the state. They admire him for his manhood and pluck, and for the fact that no man can point their finger at him and say he is unclean.

"A man said to me the other day, and he is a republican, too, that he thought Campbell was one of the nerviest executives that Ohio has ever had, and that he admired him for it. This man is not alone and I believe that he will get more republican votes than people imagine he will. People are not saying much, but they are thinking considerable, and thought and consideration will make democrats this year."

"Any People's partyites about Fostoria?"

"I know of none. Early in the campaign there was considerable noise but it has all subsided and anything indicative that the People's party would have a vote worth speaking about here, has vanished."

"How about Gear?"

"Gear will be elected by the usual majority or very near it. There was some little opposition to his senatorial candidacy by a few people in Wyandot county who were sore for some reason but the kickers are all in line and will hustle for as big a majority as possible. All talk of electing anybody but a democrat in this district is the veriest bosh."

"How are the people of Seneca county on the tariff question?"

"Well, the democrats of course are a unit for lower taxation and opposed to the McKinley bill. Farmers are posting themselves and fail to see how they are benefitted by a law which robs Peter to pay Paul. While the tax on sugar is removed they understand that they are yet the victims of exhorbitant taxation. The campaign Gov. Campbell is making is of its very nature a winner and will arouse unparalelled enthusiasm among democrats all over the state. He ought to and in my judgment will be reelected."

ARE ON THE OUTS.

Blaine and "B. H." Again at War.

The Story Is Again in Circulation That the Man From Maine Will Leave the Cabinet.

Washington, Oct. 7.—There has been a revival of the report that Mr. Blaine will not return to the cabinet.

The reason given is that Mr. Harrison is determined to adhere to a foreign policy of his own, which is opposed by Mr. Blaine, and that the latter is not disposed to take charge of the department of state merely to act in a clerical capacity for the president.

Harrison has been jealous from the first of the reputation Blaine has acquired through his much talked of foreign policy, and, as has been stated before, he has started out with a determination to make a reputation for himself through Jingoism, and is anxious that it should be known to the world that he, and he alone, is directing our relations with foreign countries.

Mr. Blaine, notwithstanding his reputation for jingo, had mapped out a policy for the state department which was conservative in a measure, though insidiously aggressive. By the carrying out of that policy he hoped to counteract the fear which had formerly been prevalent—that he was not a safe man to trust with national affairs.

Harrison from time to time has interfered very seriously with Blaine's plans, as is well known, and they were near to a rupture when Blaine was taken sick. Since then Harrison has conducted state department affairs entirely according to his own ideas, and has fallen so deeply into viewing himself as a diplomate that he will not bear of anyone interfering except to act under his instruction.

Mr. Blaine being too big a man to play clerk to this bantam and take upon himself the discredit which might grow out of Harrison's jingoism, it is said, will not return to the department unless he is given some assurance that he can run its business according to his own ideas to some extent, at least, and not be made merely the instrument of putting into effect Mr. Harrison's hobbies.

Those who know Harrison think it is entirely unlikely that he will abandon that which he has plumed himself upon, and, having gotten along so much to his own liking since Blaine has been absent, he is vain enough and sufficiently stupid to feel that he is entirely independent of the Maine statesman and that gentleman can do as he pleases about coming back. Sober second thought and wise counsel may correct this feeling to some extent, but it is not thought to be likely.

SCROFULA

Is that impurity of the blood which produces unsightly lumps or swellings in the neck; which causes running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. It is the most ancient of all diseases, and very few persons are entirely free from it.

We all took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and all have been cured of the scrofula. My little boy is entirely free from sores, and all four of my children look bright and healthy." W. B. BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

FORCED TO RETREAT.

Campbell Has the Liars on the Run.

The Commercial Gazette in a Sneaking Statement

Admits the Charges Printed Were Untrue and Tries to Shift Responsibility for Them.

Cincinnati, Oct. 7.—(Special)—The Commercial Gazette this morning prints the telegram sent by Gov. Campbell to that paper yesterday, and which was printed in these dispatches in the Bee, and also prints the telegram to the New York Recorder of the same purport.

The telegrams demanded the retraction of the story to the effect that Gov Campbell was hopelessly in debt, and that he had lost his money speculating in Wall street.

The Gazette, with the brazenness which characterized its conduct in the ballot-box deal, claims to be totally ignorant of the libel law in Ohio, and closes its disgustingly sneaking editorial by a statement that the paper is pleased to announce that the charges it made are not true.

Indignation has been aroused to the highest pitch by the incident, and the attack on the character of Governor Campbell will make him more votes than any possible dissensions in Hamilton county could lose.

Even republicans admit that the commercial Gazette has made another fatal blunder, and are crying as in one voice: "Save us from our fool friends."

The attack was malicious, and were it not for the governor's well-known standing would prove injurious to a large degree.

The fact that the Commercial Gazette printed the article and credited it to another paper does not remove the paper's liability for libel under the laws of Ohio.

It is reported here that the newspapers have been duped by a scheming republican who stands high in the councils of that party, and the governor's friends will leave no stone unturned to bring the parties to justice who were implicated in the reprehensible scheme.

The Recorder Retracts.

New York, Oct. 7.—The New York Recorder this morning prints Gov. Campbell's telegram of yesterday and says that the paper finds pleasure in printing a statement to the effect that the article published the day before was a lie.

REUNION AT PERRYSBURG.

The Gallant One Hundred and Eleventh.

Old Soldiers Get Together and Discuss Anew the Scenes of the Late War.

Perrysburg, Oct. 7.—(Special)—A better day in every respect could not have been for the thirteenth annual reunion of the One Hundred and Eleventh regiment, O. V. I., which was held here yesterday. The old soldiers arrived on the morning trains and proceeded to the M. E. church, where an address of welcome was delivered by Hon. Judge Asher Cook, of this place, and responded to by Gus Smith, of Company D. The crowd then adjourned to the Town hall, where a bounteous dinner was served to about 500 people.

After dinner the M. E. church was again filled with an eager crowd to hear the speeches, but some of the first work done was the election of officers under the direction of Rev. Ambrose Hollington, presiding officer and chaplain of the regiment, of Deleware. The officers elected are as follows: President, J. P. Barton, Deshler; secretary, J. W. Smith; vice presidents—Company A, Joseph Schwartz, Fremont; Company B, James Carter, Hull Prairie; Company C, Wm. Byer, Bryan; Company D, John McLain, Grand Rapids; Company E, August Burde, Toledo; Company F, W. M. Haller, Farmer, Defiance county; Company G, C. Cramer, Toledo; Company H, Orson Sage, East Toledo; Company I, Hugh Campbell, North Baltimore; Company K, Wm. Bailey, Milbury.

It was decided by vote to hold the next reunion at Deshler the first Tuesday in October.

The business part of the meeting over, Gen. I. R. Sherwood, Toledo, was called for and many amusing incidents were related by him, who did not forget Julius Caesar in his remarks, at the close of which three hearty cheers were given for the general. The One Hundred and Eleventh regiment was composed of 1,050 men, when 85 recruits made 1,135 men who started from Toledo for the war.

Wesley S. Thurstin, Toledo, historian of the regiment, then made a few remarks and also read an interesting letter from J. Frayze Richards, of Bowling Green, Ky.

Capt. P. H. Dowling, Toledo, next addressed the soldiers, and during his speech stated how kindly they had been received by the people of Perrysburg. Before the meeting closed words were heard from Gen. Bryan, colored, from Washington, D. C. He is soliciting for funds for a monument to the colored dead of the war, to be exhibited at the world's fair at Chicago. During the past year three members of the One Hundred and Eleventh have departed this life—Capt. John Yeager, Perrysburg, and E. W. Poe, sr., and D. W. H. Day, of Bowling Green.

Thirteen years ago the first reunion of the One Hundred and Eleventh was held in Perrysburg and on the same grounds. There were then 21 of company D present and 21 present at this reunion.

There were present yesterday Mr. Newman, of Denver, Col., who started out in company H of this regiment from Toledo. All of Companies I, D, K and part of company B was made up in Wood county.

There were a number in from Bowling Green yesterday, among them Wm. Wood, J. W. Canary and C. Finkbeiner.

A camp fire was held at the Town hall last evening and those who remained felt that it was good to be here.

A regular epidemic has broken out on Oakwood avenue. No cause for alarm, however; it is only an epidemic of matrimony. Miss Howells, married last evening, is the third young lady of the block to "take such action" within five weeks, and the two young ladies remaining will soon go the same way.

PRETTY CHURCH WEDDING.

Charles Haviland and Florence Howells United for Life.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was that of Miss Florence Howells and Mr. Charles Haviland at the Washington Street Congregational church last evening. Potted plants and cut flowers were massed about the altar rail, the church auditorium was filled with friends and invited guests in evening toilette, the Mendelssohn march was played by Miss Clara Burge, and the entrance of the bridal party was very gracefully made. Next to the beautiful young bride in her cream white silken robes and the handsome groom, the tiny, dainty Misses Bessie and Flossie, children of Frank and Fannie Howells, in the train of relatives, attracted the most attention. They were dressed like fairies and carried baskets of flowers, and the precision of their marching steps and the seriousness of the sweet little faces, was the subject of general remark. The bride carried white roses, en bouquet, and bore herself admirably.

Rev. O. D. Fisher performed the ceremony in a most graceful manner. His words were brief and well chosen, and he did not ask the bride to promise to "obey." The holy bonds were sealed by the wedding ring.

Mr. James Barr was the groom's best man, and Miss Bessie Middleswarth, an attractive belle of Norwalk, supported the bride. Mr. Haviland's parents, with other family relatives from Cleveland, Greenwich, O., and Huntington, Ind., were present.

The pleasant home on Oakwood avenue was thronged at the reception which followed. The flowers were in exquisite taste, and a new departure in the decoration of the dining room was very successful—the green boughs and red clusters of the mountain ash being used in profusion. Delicate refreshments were served, and the many sensible and elegant gifts, nicely arranged for inspection, were a delight to the beholder.

Mr. and Mrs. Haviland went at once to their new home on Lawrence avenue, fitted up to receive them (even to the breakfast program decided upon) directly after the departure of the guests. The good wishes of hosts of friends are theirs in earnestness and sincerity.

ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH.

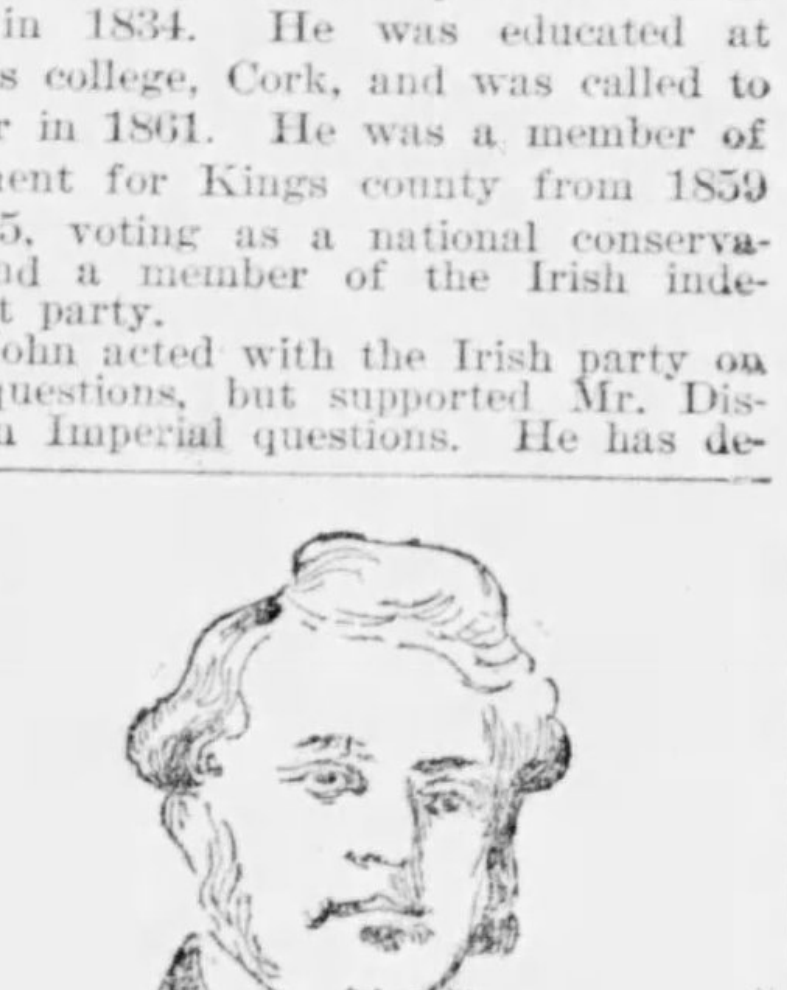
John Pope Hennessy Joins the Silent Majority.

A Prominent Figure in the Affairs of Ireland Closes His Earthly Career Suddenly.

London, Oct. 7.—John Pope Hennessy, M. P. for Kilkenny, is dead.

Sir John Pope Hennessy was born in Cork in 1834. He was educated at Queen's college, Cork, and was called to the bar in 1861. He was a member of parliament for Kings county from 1859 to 1865, voting as a national conservative and a member of the Irish independent party.

Sir John acted with the Irish party on Irish questions, but supported Mr. Disraeli on Imperial questions. He has described himself as advocating the rights of labor, public competition for public employment; the independence of Ireland, denominational education, tenant right, home rule and the independence of the sovereign pontiff, and as opposing Irish coercion bills.



Sir John was governor of Lebuan in 1867; of the West African settlements in 1872; of the Bahamas, 1873; of Barbadoes and the Windward islands, 1875; of Hong Kong, 1877; and of the Mauritius, 1882 to 1889, when he resigned.

He was made K. C. M. G. in 1880. He received the freedom of the city of Cork on December 22, 1890. Sir John was elected member of parliament to fill the seat for North Kilkenny made vacant by the death of Mr. Marum. As the result of a most exciting election Sir John, as the candidate of the anti-Parnellites, received 2,527 votes, as against 1,365 votes cast for his opponent, Mr. Vincent Scully.

Sir John was the author of "Raleigh in Ireland," "Lord Beaconsfield's Irish Policy," the "African Bubble," and numerous contributions to the proceedings of the Royal society.

In 1868 he married Catharine, only surviving child of Sir Hugh Low, G. C. M. G.

The merchant tailors continue to hold out firmly against the demands of the men, and the strike is therefore still on. IN RESPECT TO I. N. REED.

At a meeting of the Toledo Pharmaceutical association held Oct. 5th, 1891, the following action in regard to the death of Mr. I. N. Reed, was taken:

This association in the death of Mr. Reed recognizes the taking away of a warm supporter, active worker and honored associate. We bear earnest testimony to the fidelity and ability with which he discharged every duty entrusted to him by his fellow pharmacists, and in common with all classes of our fellow citizens we mourn his early death as a great loss to the city's business interests. We sincerely sympathize with his bereaved wife and family and as a mark of the deep respect in which he is held by us, we will attend his funeral in a body.

The secretary is hereby directed to convey these sentiments to the family of our deceased friend and associate.

WILL SUFFER FOR HIS SCHEME.

Detective Nichter returned from Fremont last night with one Charles Brand, who was wanted here on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. An express package containing over $96 was sent to this city by the American Express company from Fred Hiebeck, of Luman, Ind., to Charles Brandt, who works at the Schauss Bros. Manufacturing company with Brand. The latter got track of the money, also a letter of identification from the company to the express agent. He called for the money and left for parts unknown. The theft was not discovered until the sender of the money notified Brandt that it was here. The express company held Schauss Bros. responsible for the loss. The firm immediately put the matter into the hands of the police, who tracked Brand to Fremont and arrested him. Brand is a man of middle age, has no family, and will be held to answer to the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

MASQUERADE SOCIAL.

Last evening the memebers of the Home Aid association entertained their friends with a masquerade social at their rooms in the Odd Fellows' temple, the occasion being the anniversary of the organization of the association. It was organized three years ago, its objects insurance of its members, mutual assistance, care for members in sickness and trouble. So far it has been very fortunate and prosperous, not one death having occurred in the society in its three years' existence. Progressive euchre and whist, with music and refreshments was the original program for last evening, but the large crowd soon packed the lodge room and it became apparent that more room would have to be provided for the accommodation of the guests. The entertainment committee proved themselves equal to the emergency. The dancing hall above the lodge room was opened, an orchestra secured and the impromptu ball opened. It was the most enjoyable feature of the evening. This is the first of a series of socials to be given by the order, and if those to come are one-half so enjoyable as the one last night, the members and their friends have some pleasant times in store. The prsent membership of the club is 150.

IN TRADING CIRCLES

Both at Our Home and Abroad.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

London wheat market firmly held; California 3 pence up. Liverpool wheat and corn firm.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 823,155 bu., compared with 479,423 bu on the same day last year.

Wheat Damage.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—A special from Minneapolis says there is a great deal of alarm among elevator men and grain buyers regarding the wheat of Northern Minnesota and North Dakota. Col. C. A. Morton, the Fargo express buyer, writes this personal letter to a friend here:

"The present outlook for a shortening of the crop not less than 40 per cent of it is decidedly squally. Of all the grain raised in North Dakota fully that percentage is to-day in the shock, and no small portion of it is sprouting. If this weather continues the stuff will be rotten, worthless, unfit for hog feed."

Keokuk, Oct. 6.—Complaint is made by farmers in this vicinity that much of the fall wheat will be a failure. It is said that wheat sown before September 20th reached a slight shower of rain that sprouted the grain. This was followed by the unusually warm weather, which completely dried up the young and tender sprout. In all such instances the greater portion of the wheat was destroyed.

Liverpool Receipts.

The sources of supply of foreign wheat in Liverpool last week were 380,000 bu. from our Atlantic ports, 120,000 bu. from our Pacific ports, and 464,000 bu. from other sources.

The ocean stock to the continent has decreased for two weeks and to the United Kingdom increased. The continent has evidently supplied present needs by purchase here, and from other markets, and it leaves England as the only large purchaser, just now.

Damaged Wheat in England and France.

It is well to remember that the inferior wheat in England, France and elsewhere, will enter into consumption more or less, in competition with our better grades of wheat, and the influence of poor wheat is to depress the prices of the better grades.

Australian and South American Harvests

Another thing to be remembered is, that Australia and South America harvest their wheat in January, and on fair results offers of wheat for May will come in competition with us. Dornbusch says the situation warrants keeping London values between 40 and 45 shillings per quarter.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 343,732 bu. in excess of the corresponding Wednesday in 1890.

The export clearances yesterday from four Atlantic ports were 719,875 bu. of wheat, and flour to an aggregate of 850,000 bu.

English markets as reported herein are firmer, and in some positions a shade higher.

The markets of this country seem to have got adrift from any but home influences. The report of wheat damage to the northwest crop and the decided decrease in receipts seems to be the dominating influences to-day. Of course there is a possibility of an exclusion of wheat from export by Russia, or a heavy tax on its movement out of the country. Under these conditions prices are higher.

Bradstreet's report of the visible supply says: Wheat east of the Rockies increased 1,666,000 bu. Oats increased 1,388,000 bu. Pacific coast wheat increased 1,972,000 bu.

The wheat market in New York continued strong to the close at a gain on 2 1-8c and on December 2c.

Corn was also firm throughout the session, and closed at a gain of 1 1-2 for October of 2 1-8c and on December 2c.

In Toledo—There has been a fair degree of activity in wheat for future delivery and quite a change from a weaker to a stronger tone affecting on the part of dealers. Prices have improved, and the closing is at near top prices for the day. On the call cash wheat sold at 99 1-2 and Dec. at $1.02 1-2.

After the call Oct. sold at $1.00, a gain of 1 1-4. Dec. sold at $1.02 5-8 to $1.03, and closed at $1.02 7-8, a gain of 1 1-4. May sold at $1.08 1-2 to $1.09 1-4 and closed at $1.09, a gain of 1 1-8. Cash wheat was much more active, with sharp demand and sales of 80,000 bus. No. 2 soft sold at 99 1-2c to $1.00, a gain of 1 1-4. No. 3 soft, 95c to 96c. No. 4 soft at 90c to 91c. Rejected No. 1 at 85 1-2c. No. 2 at 78c to 78 1-2c. No. 2 White at 95 1-2c.

Corn—No. 2 at 56c. Oats No. 2 at 29 1-2c. Rye was steady and in better demand. No. 2 at 88c. No. 3 at 85c to 84c. Rejected at 75c.

Clover Seed—about steady and less doing. Prime for cash at $4.45. Dec. at $4.52 1-2 to $4.55. No. 2 at $4.00 to $4.25.

Markets by Telegraph.

London, Oct. 7.—1 p. m.—Wheat cargoes off coast at opening firmly held; maize nothing offering. Wheat cargoes on passage and for shipment hardening; maize firm.

Mark Lane—Wheat at opening firm; maize fair inquiry. No. 1 Cala. wheat just shipped or promptly to be shipped and nearly due, 43s 9d.

Liverpool, Oct. 7.—1 p. m.—Wheat market firm, holders offer sparingly. American mixed corn firm. Wheat and corn off coast demand poor.

New York, Oct. 7.—Cotton firm; middling uplands, 8 3-4c; futures steady; October, $8 57; November, $8 75; December, $8 88. Flour firm; low extras, $3 65@4 25; patents, $4 60@5 20. Wheat opened at 7-8c advance, moved up a cent more, then reacted 3-8c, and at noon was steady; No. 2 Red Winter cash, $1 06 1-4; October, $1 06 1-8; December, $1 09 1-8. Morris Goldberger's Bondsmen Refuse to Continue as His Sureties.

Morris Goldberger, convicted of perjury, was taken inito custody to-day by Sheriff Suart in default of bail in the sum of $1,000, his bondsmen refusing to serve any longer.

Goldberger was convicted during last term of common pleas court and sentenced to a term of three years in the penitentiary.

The case was appealed to circuit court and Goldberger was released on bail. A decision will probably be handed down in the case next Saturday.

John Derrin, who was fined the costs in police court this morning for being drunk, was also tried on a charge of petit larceny, having stolen two lanterns from the city pipe line. Passing of sentence was put off until this afternoon.

SCROFULOUS SORES

Lady Badly Afflicted Three Years Tries Many Doctors Here and in England Without Benefit. Cured by Cuticura.

My wife having suffered from scrofula sores on the back for three years, and at times she could not lie down at night, and she tried all the doctors I could get, and also went to England to try and be cured there, and all of them failed, and told her they could do nothing for her; and having tried all kinds of remedies I at last tried one box of your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and to-day she is as well as she ever was in her life, and her back is as clear as any person living, and I for one can recommend CUTICURA REMEDIES as the only one I could find to effect a cure.

INHERITED SCROFULA

My nose was of a most pronounced crimson hue, the result of inherited scrofula. I suffered untellable mortification daily, and tried enough remedies to stock a drug store without deriving the slightest benefit. I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and the most flattering results followed their use. I am all right now and I cannot find encomiums enough to bestow upon what I know to be the greatest and grandest gifts given by science to man. Please accept the most sincere and grateful thanks of one who has suffered.

Under an avalanche of votes the electors of Lucas county should bury the whole republican ticket in November.

If we do not find space to quote all the pleasant things our exchanges say of the Bee and the new building, we none the less return thanks to all.

If the people want a county commissioner who will respect the law in all things, they will vote for Foster Warren, of Sylvania township.

When Mr. McKinley is able to refer to a single mechanic whose wages have been raised because of the new tariff law, it will be time to declare that the monstrosity was enacted in the interest of American labor. Not before.

Mr. Griffin boasted of voting Mr. Messer as he pleased upon all occasions and is preparing to do the same thing with Mr. Heller if both shall be elecetd. But as neither will be elected, Griffin's plans will not cut any figure next winter.

The Norwalk Experiment-News turned its editorial columns over to the republicans the other day. That is, it devoted its editorial space to quotations from Gen. Beatty, ex-Congressman Butterworth and other Ohio reps, denouncing McKinley and repudiating McKinleyism.

The next house of representatives is likely to be too jolly. It already has one Jolly from Louisania, and another Jolly has been nominated to fill a vacancy in South Dakota.—Dayton Times.

Not to mention its jolly democratic majority, which will overturn some of the schemes for plundering the people instituted by the jolly spoilsmen who dominated the Fifty-first congress.

Perhaps the most ridiculous thing in all campaign literature is the "argument" of republican orators and editors that a tariff tax helps the manufacturer to better prices, and protects him from foreign competition, and at the same time lowers the price of goods to the consumer and increases the volume of imports! These are the things claimed in one and the same article in a high-tax organ which makes a specialty of "primer literature."

Jacob Englehardt's record is one which an official in his position may look to with pride. He has been progressive, and not simply a fossilized man, thinking only of drawing his salary.—Blade.

We are very strongly inclined to indorse the above, not that 'way down deep we believe it to be true, but inasmuch as a democratic common pleas judge has given Mr. Englehardt a splendid certificate of character, and has judicially declared that he is above law and has the right to do as he pleases, his record is certainly one of pride to himself. Indeed, he has been progressive, and has neither fossilized himself or his office, though the county treasury is somewhat a barren relic of former flush. Here's to the man whom the judge says has the right to do as he pleases regardless of the law.

The death of Mr. Parnell may be a blessing in disguise to the cause of Irish home rule. It is certain that alive Mr. Parnell's friends would remain a stumbling block for other leaders, while with the matchless leader removed the cause remains and every friend of Ireland, the world over, will have a heart interest, and thousands a contributive interest, in advancing the cause until the struggle shall end in lasting victory. No stain ever marred the bright escutcheon of Mr. Parnell until the lamentable O'Shea episode of the present year. For what he did for Ireland his name will be greatly respected for all time to come. He was the leader of leaders, the one person who never faltered and who never became disheartened by temporary defeat. For his good deeds his fame is great. For his weakness of flesh the mantle of charity ought to be broad enough to cover it all.

The death of Rt. Hon. William Henry Smith, First Lord of the Treasury, removes from the roll of living English statesmen one of the ablest and in many respects the most remarkable of the brilliant cluster. His career commercially and politically has had no parallel in modern English history save and except perhaps that of the late Lord Beaconsfield. From the owner of a small news stand he rose to a first place in the English commercial world. For years he has had a practical monopoly of the news agencies of Great Britian and every hotel and railroad depot proclaimed his name in flaming announcements. His success as a politician has been even more remarkable. There was nothing brilliant or magnetic in the Conservative leader but there was an honesty of opinion and a persistent power of overcoming seemingly insurmountable obstacles that naturally made him a leader among men. As a statesman he is head and shoulders above Balfour, who will probably succeed the dead chief, as leader of the conservative party in the house of commons.

Has anybody heard any report from the "special emigration committee" sent out from this country to investigate the question of causes for the continued flood of foreigners tending to our shores? The Paris correspondent of the New York Herald, a thoroughly equipped Franco-American, sends the following:

Of a special commission recently sent to Europe by the United States treasury department to investigate the causes of European emigration to America I met here Messrs. Powderly Cross and Schultheiss. These modern ambassadors, or inspectors—any title will fit their efforts—go about to the consular agents, to request copies of reports, the originals of which are already lodged with the state department, putting in the rest of their time in doing towns and paying from 30f. to 40f. a day at the most extravagant hotels. Fancy men who can speak no language but their own, and that not always according to Webster; who know absolutely nothing of European customs in any direction, and who, as in this special case happen to be not even American cosmopolites, sent to Europe to find out the cause of emigration! To my absolute knowledge I can certify that in Milan, at least, they did more for the restaurants, especially those with girls in them, than for the government which sent them here.

Tourists returning from abroad see the moetly groups of every nationality, waiting for shipment, dirty, ragged, anxious, with no regret in the countenances at leaving the land of their nativity, only a desire to get on board and find themselves fairly started—the beginning of the fulfillment of their dream of years. There are good faces among them, and the reverse also, and something pathetic in it all, but there are no "special commissioners" or consular agents in sight to sort out the old and decrepid, the sick and the imbecile from the young and strong.

A boat captain was asked "why are those half naked, dirty, seemingly irresponsible persons allowed to embark?" "The responsibility is not ours," was the reply. "It is supposed there are agents to attend to that business." Perhaps there may be agents at Liverpool, Queenstown and Antwerp, but at the smaller ports there is no watchfulness, no interference and the doubtful ones seek these points of departure. The "special commission" will doubtless take the documents of the consular agents from the state department files, and make out a report, when they have time.

A Toledo lady in Paris has been writing an interesting series of letters to the Bee. From one published Thursday we take the following bit of information of interest to all American buyers of foreign goods:

"The Bon Marche (good market) covesr an entire square, a large Parisian square, which is more in area than the ordinary city block, and with its numberless winding stairs, its lifes, its departments, refreshment rooms (gratis) its various doors of entrance, its aisles and aisles of dummies in gowns and wraps, its forest of hats and bonnets, its elegant vistas of mantles, its laces and lingerie, its stores of boots and shoes and its tables and tables of china, its little village of linen counters, it is a bewildering confusion of everything, yet in the most perfect system and order, once you get "the hang of it."

I got tangled up three times before I could keep track of myself and the glove division long enough to buy a dozen pairs of good kids for what half that number costs in Toledo; it is as true as 'tis tantalizing. Then such beauties of jersey silk gloves for a franc and a half (30 cents) and good ones for a franc, a serge costume, silk lined throughout, handsomely made for a third less than it costs at home—and such skads of Americans buying things the English speakig clerks are buzzing around like bees. And I hear them at every turn, good "protectionists" many of them—when they left home—conjuring how they will manipulate their wardrobes to muggle their purchases through the custom house.

The wealthy ladies of the east cities in the United States boast that they can save their passage money over and back by purchasing their fall and winter apparel on this side, and they do it, year after year. A five days' journey across the water is nothing and grows less with each repetition.

The farmers' wives in the west can pay the increased tariff on their wool dresses and blankets and carpets, or go without them as the exigencies of the situation demand. Mistress Fifth Avenue, Madame Back-Bay, and Ma'm'selle Fairmount-Park need not concern themselves; the working people of the country who cannot afford to go to London and Paris to make their yearly purchases can support the government in its alms giving. And the ship-loads of contract laborers are still going over to help the protected employer on in his fine robbery plan.—Steubenville Gazette.

There have been a number of object lessons on the tariff tax conveyed in the letters of this member of the Bee editorial staff. Clear views, and a comprehensive presentation of them make it well worth while to note how these things appear to our correspondent. Several more letters will appear before the series is finished.

DASTARDLY POLITICS.

The republican party has resorted to its usual policy of ignoring issues and attacking candidates. With a venomous disposition, long unchecked, the republican newspapers and the republican state committee again attempts to ruin Gov. Campbell. The mendacious attempt made by Gov. Foraker two years ago, assisted by Murat Halstead, is fresh in the minds of the people of Ohio. The splendid triumph of Mr. Campbell and the utter disgrace of the malignants is also of recent history. Foraker was defeated and Halstead was driven from Ohio. It was thought, after that miserable, filthy republican campaign, that the party would make a show of decency and would, at least, refrain in the future from attacking Gov. Campbell's private character. Not so, however. The ugliness of the party could not be concealed. The villners have returned to their offensive practices and the governor is again the subject of their personal abuse.

This time they attack Mr. Campbell's credit. At first hinting at possible reverses in business, which may overtake any man of business, the republicans became bolder and bolder until the climax was reached yesterday. Instigated by the republican state committee, encouraged by the republican press, and, very likely, by the republican candidate for governor, a mythical person was made to say in a column article in the New York Recorder that Mr. Campbell is worse than bankrupted because of gambling speculations; that he owes Senator Brice $85,000, John McLean $20,000; that his wife is extravagant; that he is in debt over $500,000, that he is a Wall street plunger; that he is reckless in contracting debts and lax in adjusting the same. It was a villainous article, prepared for an ugly purpose.

True to its cowardly nature, Halstead's Ohio paper, the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette, republished the article, making an apologetic editorial explanation that was even more insinuating than the original article. Other Ohio republican newspapers, evidently with prearrangement, published a synopsis of the New York article.

Gov. Campbell met the attack upon a bright shield that never yet has been dented by the lances of the enemy. He returned a vigorous blow and gave both the Commercial-Gazette and the New York Recorder notice that a failure on their part to make prompt, complete and satisfactory public retraction would be followed by a suit for libel.

The brutality of the attack upon Gov. Campbell is beyond comprehension. The miserable failure to blacken his private character two years ago did much to elect him governor of Ohio, and so this latter attempt to destroy his credit and ruin him financially ought to react with terrible vengeance upon the party that permits its leaders and organs to resort to such despicable politics. Gov. Campbell is an honest man, a statesman worthy the state, a man of the people, an advocate of good government and popular control. He has a mighty battle to wage this year against the classes, and in this added conflict public sentiment will largely be with him, and thousands will support him in his double duty of defeating the high taxers and whipping the currish defamers of private character.

TIN, TIN, AMERICAN TIN.

So far as actual establishments for the manufacture of American tin-plate are in operation in this country Messrs. Niedringhaus of St. Louis have about the only one. It is well for the campaign liar who rattles his sheet of imported tin-plate to drown the voices of the dissatisfied that this is so. A few more mills run as Messrs. Niedringhaus attempt to run theirs and the farce of protection to American labor will be so thoroughly exposed that the last believer therein will be convinced of his folly.

It seems that the enterprising St. Louis firm first, before the tin-plate clause of the McKinley monstrosity became operative, imported some 2,500,000 pounds of tin-plate from Wales, on which they can put the stamp of their mills and sell it, at the high price the tariff fixes for them, as "American tin."

Next, they imported Welsh tin-plate workers. Commissioner of Emigration Owens ruled that they might, because there were no such workmen in this country, although the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, noted for the skill and proficiency of its workmen, offered to furnish the firm with all the men they could employ.

The workmen have been imported, although there was a pretense that Commissioner Owens' ruling had been set aside, and now behold! these Welshmen, who are union men, refuse to take the places of the Americans the Niedringhaus firm turn out. The next step in the trouble is that labor organizations of every kind threaten a boycott on all the product of the St. Louis Stamping company.

And just the same this company will continue to turn out campaign medals and cups, "made of American steel, dipped in American tin, by American workmen," and the republican campaigners will have the brazen effrontery to hold this pretended industry up as a shining example of what high protection is doing for American labor. What it is really doing is driving the few laborers in the industry into idleness, and their supporters into the adoption of the un-American boycott. The protectionists should pray to be delivered from their friends, and the campaign song of "Tin, tin, American tin," should be relegated to the limbo of departed shades.

The Lines Don't "Justify."

The last dispatch sent to republican papers by the republican committee says that the financial condition of the democratic committee is at a very low ebb. What an extravagant committee the democrats must have, or else the republican committee is given to lying. The dispatch sent out before this one announced that the democratic committee had received $1,000,000 from the Cobden club and $2,000,000 from the silver mine owners. The republican committee is either lying in its last dispatch or else it lied in the previous one, and being a liar who can believe anything it sends out.—Steubenville Gazette.

What the Mail Thinks.

McKinleyism alone should defeat McKinley.

John Sherman's advocacy of a gradual change to free trade is rank heresy. If free trade is wrong in principle any approach toward it is also wrong.

The republican Pittsburg Dispatch says: "Campbell's campaign talk proves that he is sour on the tariff." Really! If you will examine the returns of last fall's elections throughout the country you will learn that an overwhelming majority of the voters hold precisely the same view.—Chicago Mail.

Playing Into Sherman's Hands.

The farmers' alliance is undoubtedly sincere and honest in the professions made of hostility to John Sherman. Yet they will please him immensely and do just what he wants them to do, if the members of the alliance will throw their votes away on the so-called people's party candidate for the legislature in democratic counties, and thus elect republicans from those counties who will vote for John for United States senator. —Newark Advocate.

The Bee is one of the best democratic dailies in the United States, and we are glad to note its permanent location in a building built upon the rock. We look to see Lucas county go democratic in November, and then the Bee will sip some sweet official honey and buzz more cheerily than ever. —Canton News-Democrat.

What Scared 'Em.

The boss republicans at Columbus have succumbed to a scare about their attempt to down the Australian ballot law with a decision of the supreme court. They have apparently backed down from perfecting the papers to make their petition in mandamus sufficient for a hearing before that body. In this they are perhaps not so much afraid of that court as they are of the people from whom they have been hearing some emphatic language on the subject.—Sandusky Journal.

It Should Be That Way.

The Australian ballot may have requirements which bother the crassly ignorant, but the right to vote presupposes a sufficiency of education and intelligence in the citizen to enable him to read and understand his ballot and to do his simple clerical duty in making it express his desires.—Philadelphia Times.

IN LEAGUE WITH BANDITS

Terrible State of Affairs on the Island of Cuba.

Spanish Officers Proving Unworthy of Their Trust.

A Lieutenant Colonel in the Spanish Army of Occupation Convicted of Kidnaping a Planter and Shot.

Havana, Oct. 7.—Spanish officials in Cuba in league with Cuban brigands. Men sent from Spain to administer the affairs of the "beautiful isle" joined with miscreants who rob, burn and kill.

This is a startling condition of things. But it is true. The execution of Don Mendez at La Cabana Castle in Havana yesterday for kidnaping, and the fact that others of his own class are implicated with him, proves it.

It has long been suspected by the people of Cuba and has often been asserted. But it has never before been clearly established, as it is now, by the conviction and execution of a man whose position was that of a commander of a small body of troops stationed in a village near Havana.

It is another link in the long chain of hardship to which the natives of the "Queen of the Antilles" have been subjected. Ever since their failure to rid themselves of the Spanish yoke they have been at the mercy of unscrupulous and conscienceless men.

Their woes have been many and there has existed a great deal of sympathy for them in this country. It was known here that they were robbed and oppressed by their Spanish rulers, but it has never been thought that they were forcibly robbed.

From information furnished it appears, however, that there has existed in Cuba for a long time a combination between a number of the officers of the army of occupation and the bandits who infest the island. The purpose of the combination was the kidnaping of wealthy natives and the procurement of ransoms. The traffic has flourished.

Many planters have been forcibly carried away to secret places and there threatened with death unless they paid liberally for liberty. The number of brigands has increased, and from confining their operations to one or two localities they have spread almost over the whole island. The authorities have shot a number of them within a few years, but it is affirmed that those who were executed were not the most guilty ones.

The immunity which Manuel Garcia, the acknowledged leader of all the brigands, so long enjoyed, is declared to have been due to this combination.

The attempt of Don Eustasia Mendez to obtain money by this means, for which he has been punished, was made in January, 1889. Mendez held the rank of lieutenant colonel in the Spanish army. He had been in Cuba for several years, and was in command of the troops stationed in Carmajuani, a small town near Havana. The mayor, or alcalde, of Camajuani, at that time was Don Modesto Ruiz, now the mayor of San Juan de los Remedios. He is a wealthy sugar planter. He disappeared from his home, and when it was learned that he was carried away by bandits, who had not previously been bold enough to kidnap any but private citizens, the greatest excitement was aroused. He was a man of mark, popular with all classes of society, beloved by his friends, and respected by all for his probity and personal integrity. A search for him was at once begun, but though it was conducted with thoroughness and persistence the place of his concealment was not revealed.

It was noticed then by many that the authorities of the town took no very active part in the search and gave evidence of indifference to the fate of the missing planter. This was commented upon widely. Subsequent events proved that there was abundant reason for comment.

After an absence of several weeks Don Modesto Ruiz returned. He would give no explanation to those who questioned him beyond saying that he had not been harmed.

But one day, some time afterward, Don Eustasia Mendez was placed under arrest and there was the utmost amazement when it was announced that he was charged with kidnaping Ruiz and endeavoring to extort money from him. With him were taken into custody Don Miguel Falcon Morales, a lieutenant of the Spanish volunteers, and others of Spanish birth, but of less important standing. They were tried before a council of war, of which Lieutenant General Sanchez, next in rank to Captain General Polaviaja, governor of Cuba, was president.

The prisoners were confined a long time before the trial began, and when it did open there was intense interest in the proceedings. The testimony of Ruiz confirmed the suspicions of the Cubans that the Spanish officers were ready to go to almost any extreme to plunder them.

Ruiz's story was a remarkable one. He was captured in a rarely frequented spot on his sugar plantation, and taken, he said, by a half dozen heavily armed men, to a place many miles distant from his home. He could not locate it because the route traveled was a roundabout one. The men consumed three days in reaching their destination. He rode a horse, the reins of which were held by men riding on either side of him, and when he returned it was in the same fashion. At the bandits' rendezvous he was well treated, but closely watched.

The commander of the little party told Ruiz that he had been instructed by his chief to inform him of the terms on which he could return to his home. These were, he said, that he was to make a will bequeathing to the daughter of Don Eustasia Mendez, the commander of the town of which Ruiz was the mayor, the sum of $700,000, with a provision that if Ruiz's relatives disputed the bequest they should receive absolutely nothing and all of the money should go to the church.

Ruiz, hoping that his friends might rescue him, asked for time to consider the proposition, which was granted. When again the commander went to him, Ruiz stated that he would negotiate with no one but the principal in the matter. He was told that a meeting could be arranged and it was arranged upon the payment of what money he had about him, some small sum.

He was not much surprised when, a few days later, there appeared before him Don Eustasia Mendez, who smilingly stated to Ruiz that it was a somewhat unusual circumstance which brought them together, but that strange happenings were not infrequent. He desired to hear what Ruiz had to say regarding the will. He then listened patiently to Ruiz's vehement protests against being carried away by force, and made no answer at all when Ruiz was silent. Then Ruiz proposed a compromise which Mendez refused to accept. Either, he said, the planter must agree to the original proposition, or die. He appears to have been something of a humorist, this Mendez, for he then began an argument, in which he said that Ruiz was an old man; he would soon die anyway, and, as he had been a good man all his life, he would go to heaven. He couldn't take his money with him, and as what remained above the $700,000 would be sufficient for his family, why shouldn't he consent? If he didn't, Mendez would be forced to kill him, which would be unpleasant.

Ruiz, after more consideration, did consent. He was told that if he did not keep his word—Mendez had means of ascertaining whether he did or not—or if he disclosed to any one why he made such a will, he would be again kidnaped and put to death. He was released and escorted by a circuitous route to his home.

His daughter by degrees induced him to tell her what had happened, and without his knowledge, for he was in fear of his life, she reported the matter to the authorities in Havana, at the same time procuring a guarantee for her father's safety would be assured.

The arrest of Mendez and his conviction and execution followed. The others were also convicted and sentenced to serve long terms of imprisonment.

I talked with a Cuban patriot of prominence in this city yesterday about the condition of his countrymen. He, of course, is a fair representative of those Cubans who are eager for one of two things—independence or annexation to the United States. He said there was a greater desire for the former than for the latter. His people had a high regard for the United States and some of them wanted annexation, but the great maority, he said, wished to govern themselves.

The feeling regarding the brigandage and kidnapping, he said, was intensely bitter. It was charged that these offences against civilized society were directly traceable to Spanish misrule and that in most instances, as in that of Don Eustasia Mendez, the actual criminals were Spanish officials.

Corruption, this patriot declared, reigned from the highest to the lowest grades of the public service. The so-called civil guard terrorized the rural districts of Cuba, levying contributions at the point of the sword. The municipal judges were frequently open plunderers of the people, working with Manuel Garcia and other brigands.

This must continue, said my informant, until Cuban independence is established.

"I tell you," he said passionately, "if these outrages are kept up, a revolution is likely to break out at any time. The people are ripe for it."

He would not even give the Captain General credit for punishing Don Eustagia Mendez. It was forced upon him to act in the matter, he declared, and the proof was overwhelming. Through the complaisance of the authorities, he said, brigandage had grown to enormous proportions during the last few years. Bandits had appeared where they had never been seen before. That was true, especially of Puerto Principe and Santiago de Cuba.

The view of Mr. J. M. Ceballos, of J. M. Ceballos & Co., the agents of the Compania Trasatlantica Espanola, is somewhat different. When I asked him yesterday about the condition of the Cuban people he said it had never been better. There were, of course, disturbing elements, but they would exist almost anywhere. The crops were good, and the people were looking forward expectantly to the beneficent results assured by the treaty of reciprocity.

JERRY HAS OPENED UP.

Simpson Talks to the People at Tiffin.

The Burden of His Speech Was That John Sherman Must be Downed at the Polls.

Tiffin, Oct. 7.—The great and only Simpson, the sockless farmers' Kansas congressman, opened his campaign for the people's party of Ohio in this city last night.

He arrived here accompanied by Hon. H. E. Taubeneck of Illinois, and they addressed a small audience in Bloomville in the afternoon.

In the evening they were greeted by 800 people in Noble's opera house. Mr. Taubeneck spoke for 40 minutes, referring only to the impoverished condition of the farmer, and showing how this has been brought about by adverse and unjust republican legislation. He was followed by Simpson, who is a most interesting public speaker, and kept the audience in one continued round of applause.

Mr. Simpson gave a brief dscription of the political revolution in Kansas and all over this country last year, and said that the tidal wave that then swept over the country was but the beginning of the deluge that is to come. The necessity for the new party was described and its principles portrayed. In discussing the money question he scored the republican party in general and John Sherman in particular for legislation in favor of the Wall street gamblers and said that Sherman more than any other one man in the country was responsible for the policy of the government being shaped by the gold bugs and parasites of the east.

The republican party never received such a scoring in Tiffin as Simpson administered, and many of the advocates of high tariff and an 80-cent dollar left the hall in a rage. One good Christian republican, H. E. Thompson, interrupted the speaker and called him a "gol darned fool." But he was genuinely sorry for it soon afterward. The republican idea of protection received a most thorough scoring. Simpson showed that after 30 years of the highest tariff taxse ever levied by the government, the average wages of labor are but 94 cents per diem; that over 3,000 farms have been abandoned in Massachusetts and Connecticut alone, and that 90 per cent. of the farms of the country are mortgaged for their full value.

"Neither free trade nor protection will benefit the laborer without the other reforms," he said. "The prohibition party cannot do it, as drunkenness is largely caused by poverty, and the question is not now whether a man shall go home drunk, but whether he shall have a home to go to, drunk or sober."

He did not claim the people's party as a panacea for all the evils the republican party has brought upon the country, but thought that if its principles were put into legislation they would go a long way toward ameliorating the condition of the American toiler. Mr. Simpson speaks in Mouroeville and Norwalk to-morrow and will remain in Ohio for 10 days.

OUT IN ARIZONA.

Acting Governor Murphy Files His Report.

Agriculture Soon to Boom in the Territory—A Plea for a Place in the Union.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The annual report of N. O. Murphy, acting governor of Arizona, has been received by Secretary Noble. The report says that while mining is still the leading wealth producing industry of the territory, agriculture will doubtless soon rank first in importance, and the transient prospectors and migrating miners will be largely outnumbered by men of families making homes without diminution of mining interests, which are increasing and more prosperous than ever.

It is estimated that there are at least 12,000 Mormons in the territory engaged in agricultural pursuits. The total assessed valuation of the taxable property of the territory is $28,270,466. The report says there is fully 70,000,000 of taxable property in Arizona. The total indebtedness of the territory is placed at $855,280, and the indebtedness of the several counties $2,175,805. The approximate number of acres subject to entry on July 1 is placed at 4,883,250. The estimated output of copper is placed at 30,000,000 pounds, gold $1,312,955, and silver $1,683,585. The acting governor makes the following recommendations:

That Arizona be admitted into the union upon the adoption of a proper constitution by the people; that all public lands within Arizona be ceded to the territory or state, and that they all be surveyed; that the 16th and 36th sections of the school land laws be made available to the territory at once and that provision be made for the selection of good sections in lieu of bad; and that the salaries of the judges of Arizona be increased to $5,000 per annum.

Before a very rural fire department could arrest the flames the Times and two adjoining buildings were ruined.

The loss will reach $100,000, on which there is an insurance of $65,000.

The Times will be issued from temporary quarters for a few days and will immediately rebuild.

PIQUA'S TIN PLATE FAKE.

The Firm Refuses to Fill an Order for Tin,

Stating That the Company Makes Only Terne Plate.

Another Evidence of the Hypocracy Practiced by the Republican Managers to Secure Votes.

Washington, Oct. 7.—J. B. Reynolds, a Chicago agent for a large tin plate dealer, came east a few days ago with one of the now famous McKinley tin plate campaign medals in his possession. He took the alleged American tin plate to the New York firm of Gordon & Dilworth and the latter expressed surprise that any one should attempt to foist on the public such a palpable fraud. The firm manufacture tin cans, and feeling convinced that the tin plate made at Piqua was only a campaign bluff they authorized Mr. Reynolds to make a proposition to the Piqua firm to purchase 1,000 boxes of Trevarth or Tragoning tin at the market price if delivered within six months. The following reply was received:

"J. B. Reynolds, New York: Thanks for inquiry, but we make terne plate only and have sufficient orders from our regular customers for the immediate future.
"Cincinnati Corrugating Co."

The difference between tin plate and terne plate is that the former is "thin iron plates covered with tin," and the latter "thin iron plates covered with an alloy of lead and tin." The Piqua company admits in the dispatch printed above that it does not make tin plate, but says it does make terne plate. The McKinley badge which Mr. Reynolds secured is supposed to be terne plate. Such it would be undoubtedly but for one fact. It contains no tin. The medal is covered with lead and nothing else. Mr. Reynolds, who is thoroughly posted on all qualities of tin says there is nothing about the piece of plate that could not be made by a schoolboy. It is simply a piece of common sheet plate covered with a cheap and useless plating of muriatic acid and a piece of very poor solder, could be made on a kitchen stove. He says that the plate is worthless for all practical purposes. It is coated with lead salts and if the plate were used for household utensils food placed in them would absorb the poison.

THE HUMANE SOCIETY.

It Is Doing a Noble Work and Should Be Sustained.

The regular monthly meeting of this society was held at its room, 313 Adams street, last evening. The meeting was called to order by President James M. Brown, who in the absence of Secretary Richardson, read the report of the previous meeting. The report not being considered sufficiently full and explicit, it was referred back to the secretary.

Secretary Richardson was at a previous meeting appointed chairman of a committee to wait upon the trustees of the Lucas county Children's Home, relative to the appointment to the women's advisory board of that institution of one woman member of the Humane Society, as the law creating that board requires. In the absence of Mr. Richardson a report was made by Mr. Rundell of the same committee that the trustees of the Home had not, as far as the committee knew, yet taken action to comply with the law. If any reason for their noncompliance was known to Mr. Richardson it could not in his absence be given the society.

Mrs. Segur, explaining that the law was explicit as to the membership of this advisory borad, and that the board as at present consituted was unconstitutional, was very emphatic in expressing the opinion that the board was inexcusable in its remissness.

Humane Agent France then read his report for September, which showed the following summary: Relief furnished, 2; cases investigated of cruelty to and neglect of children, 9; cruelty and neglect of wife and family, 13; convictions secured for cruelty and neglect of children, 3; number admonished and warned for same offense, 3; convictions secured for cruelty and neglect of wife and family, 6; number admonished and warned for same offense, 4; prosecution for such not sustained, 1; charges withdrawn by wife, 3; taken to Lancaster reform school, 1; home found for child, 1; cases of abuse of animals, 3; horses shot, 4; dog shot, 1; horses laid up, 7; case of overloading, 1; relief to animals, 8; admonished for cruelty to animals, 4; prosecution for same offense not sustained, 1; reinvestigations, 6; totad number of children looked after during September, 57.

Infirmary Superintendent Kirkby called attention to the large number of cases of desertion of families, which in September reached the number of 30. In most cases not only a wife but children were left, the family numbering all the way from 5 to 10. Supt. Kirkby expressed the fear that these cases during the coming season would reach a number that would offer a serious problem to those upon whom the care of the deserted would fall.

The case of the suicide of the wife of Delos Bellman was referred to. It was shown that she had been very cruelly treated by her husband, who had been more than once arrested for the offense, and had served one term in the stone yard. As she has left four children, the oldest only nine years old, the society felt the father was scarcely to be trusted to look after them, and President Brown instructed Mr. France to keep his eye on them.

A case was reported upon by Mrs. Bacon, which had been before the society before, of a neglected child, suffering from a bad form of sore eyes. He was with a woman who claimed he was a waif, but by later developments was shown to be the child's mother. Efforts were made to get him into the Protestant hospital, but without success nor could any place where he could be properly treated be found, and he was still in the woman's charge, attended by a city physician, and somewhat better cared for than he had been by the woman, who appeared to fear the Humane Society's agent and visitors.

President Brown deplored the lack of a children's hospital, for which there is no provision at the Children's Home, and the want of which is often seriously felt by the society. He cited the case of a boy who has been for some years kept at the infirmary, crippled by paralysis in the lower limbs. He is doubtless now a cripple for life, but had there been a hospital whre he could have been taken in, in the first place, he might have been cured.

Mrs. Bacon reported upon the case of a boy who had been taken from a step-mother who neglected and abused him, and given to his own mother's relatives. This is a very singular case, and shows what humane work this society is doing. The boy was very sickly and delicate, and the people who have him now found it difficult to get him to take any nourishment except bread and water. The step-mother had trained him to believe that meat was poison for little boys, and tea and butter were medicine.

Mr. W. A. Rundell, chairman of the finance committee, reported that 570 circulars were sent out in September, appealing to friends of the society for contributions to aid its work. So far the amount received has been $43, which does not cover expenses of printing circulars and sending them out.

This is not as it should be. The well-to-do people of Toledo have many calls upon their purses for charitable purposes, but surely the work of this society is among the noblest charities to which contributions can be made. In the year ending August 31, 1891, as a report signed by President Brown shows, four hundred and fifty-five complaints for cruelty to children and animals were investigated by this society. In these complaints, over seven hundred children, and more than half a hundred dumb animals, were involved. One hundred and two criminal prosecutions were instituted, forty-four of which were against fathers for desertion of their children. Three hundred and fifty-three cases were remedied without prosecution. Fifty-five children were rescued from suffering, or corrupt and vicious surroundings, and placed in asylums and homes.

The necessary expenses of the society are $1,500 a year. Its revenue is a percentage of the costs in cases where it prosecutes and secures convictions. As in most of the cases where convictions are secured, the offender works out his sentence at the stone yard, this regular revenue is very small. If the society is to continue, and to do the good work it is ready to do, the good people of Toledo must rally to its support. The circulars are accompanied by envelopes in which contributions can be enclosed and returned to the treasurer of the society, who will promptly acknowledge the same.

Before adjournment a strange case was reported. It seems three children from one family in Maumee were sent to the Children's Home. As the case was reported to the society, the youngest, two years old, was taken ill a little while ago, and Superintendent Robbins of the Home sent the baby back to its mother. This mother is shattered in mind, totally unable to take care of the baby, the family is wretchedly poor, no physician has been called in, and the child lies neglected in its parents home, without care or medicine. The Humane society was appealed to, but felt that the matter should be investigated, and the other side of the story heard before action was taken.

There were present at last night's meeting Mesdames Segur, Bacon, Morgan, Cole and Miss Connie Mott, Messrs. James M. Brown, T. J. Brown, Chauncey Buck and W. A. Rundell.

Campbell's Aggressiveness.

Gov. Campbell has gone right into protection strongholds and converts have openly proclaimed their changed ideas. This stirring up of strong republican counties has sometimes been regarded as a mistake, but the only way to win in a campaign is to fight aggressively, and let reason control, and not the so-called shrewdness of committee work.—Massilonian.

Don Dickinson's Greatness.

"Don" Dickinson is a great man. He knows how to buttercup babies and politics. In his congratulatory telegram to Cleveland he said: "Three times three and a tiger." This tender allusion to the new baby and pathetic allusion to the Tammany beast was as graceful a thing as could be crowded into six words.—Washington Post.

A BIG ENOUGH FAMILY.

"I think there was chilens enough,
There was Kittie and Pomp and me;
A cat and a dog and a little boy
Are a big enough family.
We used to have lots of fun, you bet,
And now we have none at all;
There's something up-stairs in mamma's bed,
A little red thing in a shawl.

"If I slide down the banisters,
Jes' make a little noise,
A woman comes out and pats my head,
And talks about 'good little boys.'
She wears a white apron and cap,
And pears to own the house;
I wond'r 'f she thinks a fellow like me
'S got fur on his feet like a mouse?

"They're all the time talking about my nose;
It's broke on the bridge, they say.
And they were certain sure there'd be
An accident there some day.
And when I look in the glass they laugh;
It's funny, I suppose.
But nobody ever did that before
When anything hurted my nose.

"When papa comes in he says, 'Hullo,
You little rat—no—'s sis?'
He means that wiggly thing up-stairs
The cook calls 'Little Miss.'
That's got the puckers in her skin,
And squinties in her eyes,
And looks like a 'gyptian mummy,
'Specially when she cries.

"Her nose is ten times broader'n mine;
Don't look like a nose a bit.
It's got little holes, but not any bone,
And mama keeps pinching it.
Jack Wilder's got a brother now,
'At can walk and pitch a ball.
Why didn't they get a child like that,
'Stead of that thing in a shawl?

"Anyhow I got Pomp and Kit;
They know a lot for true.
They scoot when they see that woman come,
And that's 'zackly what I do.
She can't catch us; but when she says
The baby's the image of me,
I wish that Pomp and Kit and I
Was all the family."

They are relics of a people far advanced in civilization, though the present inhabitants are mere savages.

Concerning a very common weed seen often in all parts of this country, the Garden and Farm says: The common Stramonium or Thorn Apple (Datura Stramonium), is, in some parts of New England, generally called "Jamestown weed," or, by elision, "Jimson weed." This name, says a recent writer in the Atlantic Monthly, sprang from the fact that the plant, which was medicinally esteemed, had been brought over by the Jamestown colonists and "spread miraculously" from the place of its first establishment. At an early date it had become so troublesome in the New Haven colony that a law was passed to enforce its destruction as "a great, stinking, poisonous weed."

"THOSE SHOPPING WOMEN."

Protection From a Woman's Standpoint.

When the Extra Tariff-Made Cost of the Dress Robs Her of a Hat She Is "Mad With Politics."

To the Editor:

As I am a woman I cannot vote. Very well, I do not want to. I would not dare hope that woman would vote more wisely than men, and not feeling sure that they have made the best of their opportunities I might hesitate to extend the franchise, though a suggestion that the heads be weighed, instead of counted, might be worthy of consideration.

As a woman, then, I am of the protected class, and to that extent I suppose a "protectionist." All chivalrous men feel duty-bound to protect the fair ones, and especially the interests of those they love; and so far every man believes in "protection." But women have rights as men have duties, and in connection with right and duty I desire briefly to discuss the word "protection," from one of its rather strained applications.

A few days ago as a stranger I joined the throng of hundreds, at the Fair grounds, to listen to the address of an aged and respected senator, one who had grown gray in the service of his country. He was discussing questions of taxation, and not being schooled in political economy, I was surprised to hear the word "protection" so often connected with that of taxation.

As an apology for the present taxes, he reviewed briefly the times of war and the necessities for vast revenues to save the government from dethronement. He said all patriotically acquiesced in such taxation, saying "everything was taxed, even the shirts on your backs." But he said at the close of the war his party began vigorously to "remove the taxes from the people." He enumerated the taxes removed, and claimed great merit for such reductions. He said the taxes had been effectually removed on domestic wares except spirits, tobacco and beer. He said, boldly, that no person in that audience was taxed on any domestic article who was not a consumer of spirits, tobacco or beer. And though a reverence for the grave senator disappeared, I yet felt an admiration for this shuffling of words as I remembered a recent experience.

On my way to Ohio from the west I remained a day in Chicago. Of course I went shopping, and, as would be expected, dress goods was the object of my search.

In one of the leading establishments I found goods superb in quality and suitable to "my style of beauty." There was no hurry and the merchant, who was very affable and intelligent, seemed very willing to enjoy a chat, and as everyone is eloquent upon subjects he understands, he proved a master in the line of dress goods.

One piece of lovely woolen goods struck my fancy. It was "all wool," finely finished, and as I thought not unreasonable in price. He said it was imported goods and the air with which he conveyed this information conveyed also the idea that this assurance should settle the question as to the genuineness and merit of the article. The price was two dollars per yard. There were other pieces with apparently equal weight, finish and quality; these he said were of American manufacture but ten cents a yard lower in price. He claimed equal merit for the goods, but he said so many people prefer imported goods as to justify this difference in price.

I told him I had always understood foreign goods were "cheap," for I had read that much in the current discussions of politics. He replied that was true, that the price of the goods in question cost ninety cents a yard in England, to which must be added freight, commission, insurance and eighty-two per cent. duty, with a profit on all these items of cost. "The popular notions as to the difference in quality, which are usually fallacious, enable us to sell more domestic goods and thus increase our profit."

The pleasant colloquy revealed these facts, that if I bought the English goods for two dollars a yard I paid ninety cents a yard original cost, freight, insurance and commission, amounting as he thought to ten per cent., equalling one dollar per yard, then eighty cents a yard duty, with twenty cents a yard profit on these items of cost.

If I bought this goods that eighty cents a yard duty went into the treasury and was certainly a tax, and I certainly paid it. Surely in this case the consumer paid the tax. But is this a jugglery with words? The senator said those who use domestic goods are not taxed except they use tobacco, spirits or beer.

Here, however, were many more domestic than foreign goods, the price of the former established by the cost of the latter, plus the profits in our market. Allowing some difference for American weakness for imported goods, a weakness based upon the fear of American shoddy, it transpires that of these domestic goods, with an amount equalling the tax on the imported goods added, there is from eight to ten times as much sold as of the foreign goods. Is not this the purpose of "protection?" and was not the tax put on the foreign goods chiefly for the purpose of enabling the makers of the home goods to increase the price an amount equal to the duty?

I paid the tax on the foreign goods, and had I bought the domestic goods instead, at the price based upon the price of foreign goods plus the tariff, etc., I would have paid the tax all the same, though it would have gone into the pockets of the domestic manufacturers. To dispute this is an empty play of words.

Further it transpires that in this class of goods, there is fully ten times as much domestic as foreign goods sold, so for every dollar we are taxed for the benefit of the treasury, we are taxed nine or ten for the benefit of these home makers. In my case there was no "protection," for the treasury got the tax; but in nine cases out of ten, the buyers taking domestic goods, there is no revenue, for the tax goes to the "protectionist." I paid the eight dollars, not because the government needed it, but to enable the "protectionist" to take ten times eight dollars from other ladies on domestic goods.

But a few doors away I entered a millinery establishment. There I saw a neat traveling hat, the price of which was $8. My husband was my traveling companion, and here he mildly remarked "'Protection' robbed you of enough on the dress to buy the hat," and then for the first time I was mad with politics. How plain this was, for object lessons make the deepest impressions.

Men vote for protection, for a policy that robs those who are unable to vote against it if they would. I believe in love, harmony and domestic peace, but I believe there is that spirit in woman which would revolt against this oppression if they understood it.

For years I had purchased my own clothing with my own money, and being a confiding woman, patriotically proud of the fact that, living in this "land of the free and home of the brave," I was secure from imposition, I innocently paid my money without question or suspicion. It had never dawned upon me that 80 per cent. of the earnings of the women of America were stealthily taken from them under the seductive policy of protection.

But I now see that all women in America, and more especially those buying cheaper goods, are and have been robbed of fully one-third of their money without the least thought of the wrong being practiced upon them.

I believe if every woman in America could see as plainly as I have seen that there is tariff enough in every woolen dress they buy, whether of domestic or foreign goods, whether bought in their home store or in Chicago, to buy a new hat, that the stealthy hand of this cunning system of robbery would be crushed; or that such a series of "curtain lectures" would be delivered at "divers times and places" as would drive the lords of creation into wiser habits of thought.

UNDERGROUND MYSTERY.

A Cave Devoted to the Use of Robbers.

Missouri Boasts of Something Out of the General Order in That Country.

Galena, Mo., Oct. 7.—Great excitement has been caused in this neighborhood the past few days by the report that a body of mineral prospectors had been driven from a cave a few miles from this place by cave-dwelling banditti.

It appears that a Mexican and two other men were searching for minerals which are known to exist in the hills of this and adjoining counties, and on entering an underground passage they were confronted by several persons who warned them to proceed at the peril of their lives, and not to return.

The stay of the prospectors was limited to the time it took the bandits to count twelve. The bandits would have but little chat with the prospectors and said they recognized the voice of Sheriff Davidson and a man they call Edwards.

There being no sheriff by that name in this region the impression was created that they were fugitives from justice, finding refuge in these cavernous hills.

A warrant was sworn out and placed in the hands of Sheriff Bookout of this county, who, with about forty or fifty citizens of this and Taney counties, are keeping a strict surveillance over all the avenues to the rocky cavern.

When our informant left, huge bowlders had been rolled into the entrance, and every means resorted to to compel a peaceful surrender. All manner of wild stories of hidden treasures and bloody cut-throats are afloat, and at this time it is difficult to arrive at the exact situation.

A large party from this town joined the sheriff yesterday and are endeavoring to find the bottom of what seems to be an unfathomable mystery.

Spanish treasure, rich minerals, escaped criminals and other weird theories are advanced as the clew to the affair, and it is likely to be some days yet before the whole truth is known. One thing is very certain—a more spacious and unapproachable underground chamber could not have been found than the one selected by these Spanish and Mexican Rob Roys, if such they be. A day or two may develop something tangible, which will be promptly reported.

A PLEASING VARIETY

For Readers of the Monthly Magazines.

The Century Closes Its Forty-Second Volume—Good Things in the "Reviews"—A Breezy "Outing"—Notes on Books.

With the October number The Century closes Volume XLII worthily. A portrait of Rudyard Kipling is the frontispiece, along with which is his autograph in penmanship which makes one who knows the ins and outs of the publishing business hope he furnishes his "copy" for the printers type-written. The conclusion of Dr. Eggleston's "Faith Doctor" confirms the criticism earlier made that the story is his strongest and best work. It has all the analytical qualities and touches of realism that characterize Howell, and is happily lacking in that quality of Howell which may be called cold-bloodedness. "The Story of a Story," complete in this number, is very original and bright. Before one sees the name of the writer it is plain to "the initiated" that writer has a practical knowledge of the art of story-telling, and when Brander Matthews' name is reached it is recognized that the story is by one of the best reviewers in the country. "Who Was El Dorado?" may be specially commended to the increasing number of students of Spanish-American relations in the past. "Aerial Navigation" is another timely paper, and indeed there is nothing in the magazine which is not entitled to careful perusal. The departments are up to their always high standard. For 1892 The Century announces four serial stories, one the joint production of Rudyard Kipling and Wolcott Balestier, the others by Dr. Wier Mitchell, Mrs. Burton Harrison (author of "The Anglomaniacs"), and Mary Hallock Foote. Thomas Bailey Aldrich is among the promised writers of short stories, and other contributors will be Emilio Castelar, Spanish orator and writer; Edmund Clarence Stedman; several famous French musicians, with papers on musical topics; Dr. Edward Eggleston, Archibald Forbes, Edgar Wilson Nye, Brander Matthews, Albert Shaw and others. Such a wealth of literature, accompanied by fine and full illustrations, all for $4 a year, is one of the crowning glories of the day.

One more fine portrait of James Russell Lowell is offered in the frontispiece to the Arena for October, followed by a critical and interesting paper upon Lowell by George Stewart, D. C. L., L. L. D. "Healing Through the Mind," by Henry Wood, will interest students of psychology. Hamlin Garland writes concerning Mr. and Mrs. James A. Herne, their plays and acting, with copious extracts from the plays, and a number of fine illustrations of Mr. and Mrs. Herne in costume are given. The article on the "Weak Spots in the French Republic," by Theodore Stanton, will receive fuller notice another day. Thaddeus B. Wakeman again comes to the defense of the "Nationalism" in which he so firmly believes. Will Allen Dromgoole contributes the story, "A Grain of Gold." Other commendable articles are "Leaderless Mobs," H. C. Bradsby; "Madame Blavatsky at Adyar," Moncure D. Conway; "The Microscope," Dr. Frederick Gaertner. The editor deals with "Religious Intolerance To-day," and "Social Conditions Under Louis XV."

The first three articles in the October North American Review are most timely. The first of them (in two parts) deals with that most interesting question, "Can We Make It Rain?" An affirmative answer is furnished by Gen. Robert G. Dyrenforth, who had charge of the recent rain-making experiments in Texas. He describes in detail what was done there, pronounces the experiments a success, and concludes that the making of rain by explosions of powder and dynamite is practicable and not excessively expensive. The negative side is strongly put by Prof. Simon Newcomb, who contends that sound can produce no changes in the atmosphere or clouds and can have no influence in causing rain. The cause and progress of the civil war in Chile are described by Captain Jose Santa Cruz, late commander of the Chilian man-of-war "Huascar," who has been in this country as a representative of the now successful congressional party. "Speculation in Wheat" is discussed by the famous grain speculator, B. P. Hutchinson, (through the medium of a reporter) who tells about wheat "corners" and the effect of the recent ukase in Russia against the exportation of rye. Hon. John Russell Young, former United States minister to China, writes of the progressive movement in that country, and points out what should be the relations between the United States and that ancient nation. "The Evolution of the Yacht" is a congenial theme for Lewis Herreshoff, the well-known yacht builder of Bristol, R. I. He gives a full description of the points wherein the "Gloriana," which has won so many triumphs this season, differs from the ordinary type of yacht, and suggests the building of a steamship on the model of this celebrated yacht. A very effective answer to the question, "Is Drunkenness Curable?" which was discussed by four medical experts in the Review for September, is furnished by John F. Mines, LL. D. (Felix Oldboy), who depicts graphically his own cure of the disease of drunkenness by the bichloride-of-gold method of Dr. Keeley. The Hon. Frederick Douglass, late United States minister to Haiti, contributes Part II. of his "Inside History of the Negotiations for the Mole St. Nicholas." A tribute to the late James Russell Lowell, who was the editor of the Review from 1863 to 1872, is offered by his friend and fellow poet, Richard Henry Stoddard. William Henry Hurlbert writes regarding "Reciprocity and Canada"—a paper which would have had double value had the postponed meeting not been further postponed by the government at Washington. Under the exceedingly suggestive title of "Straws," Colonel Henry Waterson, the editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, contributes some incisive reflections on the position of the democratic party in relation to the nomination for president next year. The concluding article in this strong number of the Review is by E. L. Godkin, editor of the New York Evening Post, who deals with the "Economic Man" of Ricardo and repels some of the imputations made upon the followers of Ricardo and Mill.

The Engineering Magazine for October presents the following table of contents:

Progress in Aerial Navigation, O. Chanute, president Am. Soc. C. E.; One View of the Keely Motor, T. Carpenter Smith, M. E.; The Possibilities of Landscape Gardening, John De Wolf, L. A.; Railroad Building on the Texas Frontier, Geo. W. Rafter, C. E.; Marble Quarrying in the United States, E. R. Morse; Modern Types of Gold and Silver Miners, Albert Williams, jr., E. M.; The Conditions Causing a Tornado, Prof. H. A. Hazen, U. S. Weather Bureau; The Future of Our Wagon Roads, Wm. Claypool, C. E.; A Solution of the Block Signal Problem, H. Ward Leonard, E. E.; The New Art, Decorative Electricity, N. G. Wall; Editorial Departments, Machine Shop Notes, New Publications, Editor' Exchange Table.

These papers are nearly all amply illustrated, thus adding greatly to their value. The handsome number opens the second volume of the publication which is daily enlarging its circulation, because of its progressive merit.

The numbers of Littell's Living Age for September 26 and October 3 contain Memoirs of Prince Talleyrand, Edinburgh Review; Private Life in France in the Fourteenth century, Fortnightly Review; Lettie Coe, Temple Bar; A Real Tartarin, Macmillan's Magazine; The American Tramp, Contemporary Review; Some Recent Studies on the Solar Spectrum, Month; The Dutchman at Home, Macmillan's Magazine; Goethe's Friendship with Schiller, Fortnightly Review; A Maiden Speech, Murray's Magazine; Mnemosyne, Blackwood's Magazine; The Future of Portugal, Fortnightly Review; Our Dealings with the Poor, Nineteenth Century; Names in Novels, Blackwood's Magazine; Extracts from some Unpublished Letters of Charlotte Bronte, Macmillan's Magazine; The Fort des Vingt-quatre Heures, Spectator; Sir John Macdonald, Blackwood's Magazine; and poetry and miscellany.

Table Talk shows an infinite variety of wise and helpful things this month. The Autumn frontispiece is a pretty bit of landscape, and the fruits of the season and how to handle and preserve them are seasonable topics considered. Bills of fare which are such an aid to the home caterer, and pages of good recipes are features of this magazine, which is offered for the remarkably low price of $1 a year. Table Talk Publishing company, Philadelphia, Pa.

The one thing that saves a Magazine of History from becoming like any volume of history, in chapters, is its touch upon timely topics in every publication. This fact kept in view is what gives the Magazine of American History its commanding place in current literature of the day. In the October number are interesting sketches and portraits of Ferdinand and Isabella, with an essay by Mrs. Lamb, the editor, in her best vein. The Sultan of Turkey and the Chicago Exhibition, by Fred'k D. Thomas, is another timely contribution. "Napoleon Bonaparte and Peace with America," by Edward Spencer, is a thoroughly readable paper and furnishes theme for the handsome frontispiece—a picture of Napoleon at that period.

Notes and Comments.

Bismarck has written five chapters of his book. They treat of events which happened in 1866 and of his retirement.

Somehow the sister, brother, son or daughter who follows after a man or woman who has made fame in letters, is not advantaged by the fact of such connection. The new novel, "The Heart of a Maid," written by Beatrice, sister of Rudyard Kipling, reprinted from the Indian edition by the John W. Lovell company in their international series, is said to be "well worth reading even though it may not scintillate with the brilliancy of the brother's genius."

A timely feature of the October number of that peculiarly timely periodical, the Review of Reviews, is the group of articles appropos of the great Methodist international conference that opens in Washington on October 7 and lasts two weeks. Besides a general account of the conference, in which some thirty different Methodist denominations participate, and a remarkable article by Mr. Stead upon the progress and influence of Methodism, there is a very brilliant character sketch of that young Boanerges of British Methodism, the Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, of London. Mr. Hughes will be in many respects the most conspicuous man in the Washington assembly. He has been characterized as the "livest of living Methodists." The Review of Reviews illustrates these articles on Methodism with portraits of more than 50 of the most prominent Methodists of the present day, all of whom are expected to participate in the work of the conference at Washington. The illustrations include all the bishops of the northern church, ten southern bishops, 11 of the most prominent visiting clergymen from Great Britain, and various others.

Current Literature in its October number, and new department—The Literature of the Drama—reprint an exceedingly clever article from the National (English) Observer, entitled, "A Definition of Drama." Other interesting articles in this special department are: "Reforming the Stage," by Howells; "Attraction of the Stage," by Clara Morris; "Illusions of the Stage," by Franklin Fyles; and "Books About the Theater," by Brander Matthews. The Current Literature Publishing Co., 30 West Twenty-third street, New York.

"A Maiden's Choice" is a clean, naturalistic story of German life, pathetic and humorous by turn, written by Elsie L. Lathrop and published by the Worthington company, New York, in their International Library. Paper, 75 cents.

Oliver Optic has written a new book for the small boys, with the patriotic title, "Stand by the Union."

One of the important Atlantic articles for the month is "The Late Sir John McDonald," by Martin J. Griffin. It is a concise history of Canadian affairs since 1858, giving an account of the relations of Canada with the United States and with England. Mr. Griffin has succeeded in compressing in this short article as much information as is contained in some histories of Canada.

Constance Fenimore Woolson's article on Cairo contains an interesting lot of pictures, among them a portrait of Cleopatra.

C. W. Wetmore, who is to marry Miss Elizabeth Bisland the present month, is a young lawyer of New York, a partner of Gen. F. C. Barlow.

Harry Furness, the Nast of the British press, is giving lectures through the Islands cities with stereoscopic views of the houses of parliament. They are immensely entertaining.

Emily Dickinson's letters to Thomas Wentworth Higginson, are an interesting feature of the October Atlantic. Admirers of Miss Dickinson's verse will be interested to know that it was in following Mr Higginson's advice the shy writer declined to publish her poems as she wrote them. The correspondence extended over a period of fifteen years before she met Mr. Higginson and she never saw him but twice and then the interviews were brief. After the advice above mentioned, given the girl poet, it is confessional, in a way, for Mr. Higginson to write—

But for her only sister it is doubtful if her poems would ever have been printed at all: yet six editions of the volume have been sold within six months, a suddenness of success almost without a parallel in American literature."

"Outing" is on the reading table, so breezy and inspiring, one desires to throw pen and pencil and seek "the browning woods," the "streams where sky-fish play," the mountains and the prairie. We wander, with its writers, from Yale to the Indian Territory, the Sacramento Valley, to the mackerel coast, the Upper Peninsula and the Kanob desert. And we go on bicycles, on horseback, by railway trains and on foot. October is a good month for "outing," and the magazine catches the true spirit of it.

The October Domestic Monthly contains as a supplement a handsome plate in five colors of some of the new fall fashions. These plates will be a feature of The Domestic Monthly hereafter, and no change has been made in the subscription price. All the popular departments of the magazine are retained and improved. The October number contains over 150 illustrations, and is as handsome a periodical as one would care to see. It is a most complete fashion magazine, and its stories and sketches are always readable.

The Domestic Monthly is published at 853 Broadway, New York, at $1.50 a year, postpaid, with $1 worth of patterns to every subscriber.

One of the important articles of the month is an article on James Russell Lowell by Edward Everett Hale in the October number of the New England Magazine. Dr. Hale is well known to the world as a brilliant essayist, and the close intimacy which existed between him and the poet gives a personal interest to his article, which adds to its attractiveness. A number of anecdotes of Lowell are recited and are here given publicity for the first time. A fine portrait of Lowell in his study, taken just before his death, furnishes the frontispiece of the magazine.

A new feature has just been introduced in the New England Magazine. It is, "In a Corner at Dodsley's," a gossip about writers and books by Walter Blackburn Harte, which is as frank and unconventional in tone as any of the political articles from his pen that have made his name familiar.

"The Housekeeper's Weekly" is a new candidate for favor in the west. An art portfolio is sent every subscriber as a premium, $1 a year. Housekeeper Company, Philadelphia, Pa.

Vapor Poison and Its Antidote.

The morning and evening mists that pervade the atmosphere of malarious localities cannot be breathed with impunity. A safe-guard is needed to render harmless the dangerous miasmata with which they are impregnated. The surest, safest defense is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is an antidote to the poison which has already been inhaled and borne fruit, an adequate preventive of its harmful effects. No preparative for breathers of miasma-tainted air or drinkers of malaria-poisoned water like the Bitters. It completely neutralizes the otherwise irresistible onset of the aerial foe. Settlers on newly cleared land, excavators of canal routes (notably that on the Isthmus of Panama), western pioneers and emigrants—in short all subjected to malarial influences in air or water find it a benign remedy, an effectual safeguard. Disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, "la grippe," rheumatism and kidney complaints are remedied by the Bitters.

ABOUT DRINKING-WATER.

Large Cities Investigating Their Water Supply—Discovery of Diseas Germs—Smaller Cities Also in Danger.

New York and other cities are now agitating the very serious question of their water supply. Investigation has brought to light the fact that impure matters, in spite of expensive attempts at prevention, will find their way into the streams from which the water supply is drawn. It has been thought for years that a stream running in the open air, will cleanse itself partly by settling of the impure matter and partly by æration but it has recently been decided by the proper authorities that no such process of self purification takes place.

As in most places the water supply is drawn from streams which pass through land where cattle, horses or sheep graze, a very general movement has taken place throughout the United States, towards the purification of water for drinking purposes in the home itself. The most popular and effective method is to mix a little pure whiskey with the water; filtration it seems, does not get rid of the presence of poisonous nitrates. It is to be impressed on all those who take this method of preserving their health that the whiskey used must be pure. Duffy's Pure Malt is highly recommended by leading doctors and scientists as being the purest medicinal whiskey on the market. Blues, headaches, nervousness, liability to sore throat, peculiar pains in the back and many other small but troublesome ills frequently have their origin in impure drinking water. The mixing of a little Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey with drinking water will render it incapable of producing these or even the worse effects of typhoid fever and other malignant fevers of the same type. By-the-by it will be well to remember when you call at your druggist's or grocer's for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, that it is the only pure medicinal one, so do not be willing to take a substitute recommended as "just as good."

CHEATING IN HORSE BLANKETS

Nearly every pattern of 5/A Horse Blanket is imitated in color and style. In most cases the imitation looks just as good as the genuine, but it hasn't the warp threads, and so lacks strength, and while it sells for only a little less than the genuine it isn't worth one-half as much. The fact that 5/A Horse Blankets are copied is strong evidence that they are THE STANDARD, and every buyer should see that the 5/A trade mark is sewed on the inside of the Blanket.

DOCTORS FRANCE AND OTTMAN,

Formerly of New York, now of the France Medical and Surgical Institute, Columbus Ohio, by request of many friends and patients, has decided to visit

TOLEDO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 10.

Consultation and Examination Free and Strictly Confidential in the Private Parlor of the Burnett House from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m., one day only.

The Doctors describe the different diseases better than the sick can themselves. It is a wonderful gift for any one to possess. Their diagnostic powers have created wonders throughout the country.

The France Medical and Surgical Institute of Columbus, Ohio, is the only Medical Institute in the state incorporated with a capital of $300,000.

DR. OTTMAN, the Celebrated Examining Surgeon of

FRANCE MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE,
38 & 40 W. Gay St., one block N. of State House, Columbus, O. Incorporated, 1886. Capital, $300,000.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, of New York, the well known and successful Specialists in Chronic Diseases and Diseases of the Eye and Ear, on account of their large practice in Ohio, have established the FRANCE MEDICAL INSTITUTE, where all forms of Chronic, Nervous and Private Diseases will be successfully treated on the most Scientific principles. They are ably assisted by a full corps of eminent Physicians and Surgeons, each one being a well known specialist in his profession.

CANCER positively cured without pain or use of the knife, by a new method.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.—DR. FRANCE, after years of experience, has discovered the greatest cure known for all diseases peculiar to the sex. Female diseases positively cured by the new remedy, OLIVE BLOSSOM. The cure is effected by home treatment. Entirely harmless and easily applied. Consultation Free and Strictly Confidential. Correspondence promptly answered.

YOUNG MEN—Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, may call with confidence.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, after years of experience, have discovered the greatest cure known for weakness in the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, palpitation of the heart, timidity, trembling, dimness of sight, or giddiness, diseases of the head, throat, nose, or skin, affections of the liver, lungs, stomach, or bowels—those terrible disorders arising from the solitary vice of youth—and secret practices, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible. Take one candid thought before it is too late. A week or month may place your case beyond the reach of hope. Our method of treatment will speedily and permanently cure the most obstinate case, and absolutely restore perfect manhood.

TO MIDDLE-AGED MEN.—There are many from the age of 30 to 60 who are troubled with frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight burning or smarting sensation, weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examination of the urinary deposits, a ropy sediment will be found, or the color will be a thin or milkish hue. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is a second stage of seminal weakness. We will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.—We have a special department, thoroughly organized, and devoted exclusively to the treatment of diseases of women. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. Important cases (and we get few which have not baffled the skill of all the home physicians) have the benefit of a full council of skilled specialists. In treatment of diseases peculiar to females, our success has been marked, over two thirds of our patients being ladies, old, young, married, single, rich and poor. Our method is entirely free from objectionable features of the general practitioner, namely, "Local treatment." We seldom find it necessary. We prepare remedies, constitutional and local, as the case demands, and instruct ladies how to treat themselves.

MARRIAGE.—Married persons, or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency, or any other disqualification, speedily restored.

PRIVATE DISEASES.—Blood Poison, Venereal Taint, Gleet, Stricture, Seminal Emissions, Loss of Sexual Power, Weakness of Sexual Organs, Want of Desire in Male or Female, whether from imprudent habits of youth or sexual habits of mature years, or any cause that debilitates the sexual functions, speedily and permanently cured. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Absolute cures guaranteed. Medicines sent free from observation to all parts of the United States.

EPILEPSY, OR FITS—Positively cured by a new and never-failing method. Testimonials furnished.

FREE EXAMINATION OF THE URINE.—Each person applying for medical treatment should send or bring from 2 to 4 ounces of urine (that passed first in the morning preferred), which will receive a careful chemical and microscopical examination, and if requested a written analysis will be given.

Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenders, who keep trifling with them month after month, giving poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately. Delays are dangerous.

WONDERFUL CURES Perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskillfully treated. No experiments or failures. Parties treated by mail or express, but where possible, personal consultation is preferred. Curable cases guaranteed. No risks incurred.

IN PITTSBURG FIELDS.

Trouble That Tends to Boom Toledo Coal Traffic,

And the Capacity of Ohio Roads is Being Tested—The Sale of the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw.

The close of the coal shipments this season, lake and rail, to and from Toledo, promises to be unusually lively and will surpass that of former years.

This condition of affairs is due to the trouble with the coal miners in the Pittsburg district, which is shutting off a large volume of coal otherwise shipped to the lakes and is crowding the Ohio lines beyond their capacity.

A message received from one of the leading operators in the Pittsburg field, by a local railroad man, says that the operators have unanimously and positively agreed not to concede any claims made on them that differ from the contract of May last, which contract was for 29 cents a ton until May, 1892.

The miners agreed to the contract and the operators think they should live up to it. Meanwhile local business is booming.

The Toledo & Walhonding Valley.

The Pennsylvania company is about to purchase 750 cars, 150 box cars with automatic couplers and air breakers and 600 gondolas with automatic couplers, for the Toledo, Walhonding Valley & Ohio railroad, formed by the road entering Toledo and the extension to the eastern Ohio coal districts.

Still a Little Mixed.

It was not a very large crowd of gentlemen that gathered in this city yesterday to witness and participate in the sale of the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw railroad. However, the road was sold, but to two different parties, and just what each is going to do with his half is a mystery to the general public and railroad men as well. But then "still waters run deep."

The road was sold under decrees from the United States circuit courts of Ohio and Michigan, and in default of mortgages made by the company to the Central Trust company of New York. The sale took place at the United States court at 3 o'clock. Marshal B. F. Wade explained the situation, and called for bidders. The property was divided into two parcels. One, the central division, was sold to Gen. A. V. Rice, of Ottawa, for $1,642,270.

The second parcel, representing the remainder of the road, was knocked down to W. K. Brown, representing the re-organization committee, for $2,225,000, the first bid. Mr. Hal Wade explains that the road would then be sold as a whole, and if the bid was more than the two previous bids combined, those bids would be null and void, and the road would go to the single purchaser rather than split it up.

There were no bids, so the sale remained as first consummated. Thirty days will elapse before the confirmation of the sale by the court. The C., H. & D. was seemingly not in it, as has been predicted all along. The sale leaves the road in rather queer shape and further developments will be watched with interest.

Won't Do It Again.

"The Lake Shore will never discharge another agent for receiving commissions," said a passenger agent of one of the western lines, who had just been over the road, to a Bee. "It has hurt their business to an extent greater than you would imagine, and the people in the towns where agents were discharged are up in arms against the road. You would be surprised at the amount of feeling the matter has aroused even in the west. The edict was sent forth from the higher powers, and the passenger officials are powerless to reinstate the agents, at least at present, but the company has seen its mistake and there will be no more discharges."

Cinders Here and There.

Division Freight Agent J. M. Osborn, of the Wabash, is in Illinois.

General Passenger Agent J. M. Hall, of the W. & L. E., is in Chicago.

General Manager J. M. Ferris, of the Toledo & Ohio Central, will return from down the line to-night.

The T., C. & C. and the C., H. V. & T. will run excursions to Ada to-morrow to the Campbell-McKinley debate.

The Detroit, Toledo & Findlay joint committee have issued a supplement to their minimum rate sheet on pig iron.

A rate of $1.20 per gross ton has been authorized on scrap iron and old rails from Saginaw and Bay City to Toledo.

General Superintendent T. M. Peear, of the Ohio Central lines, returned from a trip over the T. & O. C. this afternoon.

The Toledo division of the Order of Railway Telegraphers will meet Friday evening and take in five new members. The order continues to grow rapidly.

The Michigan Central management has under consideration increasing the speed of its North Shore limited trains between Buffalo and Chicago to 55 miles per hour.

A meeting of the special eastbound committee will be held in Chicago to-morrow to consider among other things the recent charges of rate cutting on provisions and oats by lines inside and outside the Central Traffic association.

In the month of September there were nine deaths among the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. There was paid out of the fund four benefits of $1,500, leaving five assessments of $3,000 each to be paid for the month, making total benefits paid $21,000. There are at present 11,343 engineers who belong to the brotherhood who are insured as follows: 6,957 for $1,500 and 4,386 for $3,000.

All the lines in the Western Traffic association are said to have agreed on a plan for issuing free transportation during the coming year. Each application for a time or annual pass is to be referred to Chairman Walker and the board of commissioners of the Western Traffic association. By this means it is expected that the roads will be able to shut off the demands of the numerous refrigerator-car men, merchant directors in paper railroads and the scores of classes of people who annually secure free transportation.

GOES TO COLUMBUS.

Louis Nunn Will Prove the Charges of Treason.

The Bee's statement of facts relative to the charge of disloyalty and treason preferred by members of the Lucas county republican central committee against a member of state central committee created a decided sensation in the local republican camp yesterday.

The Bee stated, it will be remembered, that the parties preferring the charges had been summoned to Columbus to prove these charges, which Mr. W. I. Squire denied in toto.

This morning Mr. Louis Nunn, one of the parties, it is said, who signed the charges, went to Columbus, and it is alleged will endeavor to substantiate his case.

BROKE THE AGREEMENT.

Western Railroads Having a Hard Time in Fixing Percentages.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—The commissioners of the Western Traffic association yesterday broke the Union Pacific-Northwestern agreement. Under this agreement, which disrupted the Interstate Commerce Railway association, the Northwestern accepted 19 6-10 per cent. of the through rate as its proportion instead of 22 per cent., which connecting lines had formerly received.

The St. Paul insisted upon receiving 22 per cent. as the proportion of traffic from Montana and the Union Pacific refused to pay more than the Northwestern would have accepted.

To the Union Pacific's surprise, however, its ally joined with the other roads in demanding the larger division, and the Western Traffic association yesterday officially declared the Union Pacific's connections should receive 22 per cent.

WAYNE COUNTY BONDS.

Wooster, Oct. 7.—A lively interest was taken in the special election held here yesterday in Wayne county on the proposition to bond the county for $85,000 to secure the location of the state experiment station. Twenty-two precincts heard from give a total vote of 3,191 for it to 650 against. Wooster city and township give a majority of 1,312. The indications are that the majority in favor of the proposition will be over 3,000. Voters profess to be delighted with the kangaroo plan of voting, few mistakes in ballots being made in the city.

HAD A CLOSE CALL.

Major McKinley's Train Escapes a Wreck.

Cincinnati, Oct. 7.—The special train bearing the Lincoln club excursionists back from Batavia had a narrow escape from disaster last evening. It seems that orders had been given for the special to stop at Batavia Junction, where the Little Miami intersects, and to sidetrack to let the regular passenger from the city go by on the main track.

Instead of sidetracking according to orders the special continued on its way to the city, but with its speed somewhat slackened.

When a short distance this side of Batavia Junction the engineer saw the headlight of the approaching train. He whistled a warning signal and put on the brakes.

The two locomotives were brought to a standstill with their pilots not forty-five feet apart. Major McKinley was on the special train which backed to the siding and finally reached this city.

CALLED IN CONTEMPT.

Columbus, Oct. 7.—The supreme court of Ohio to-day issued a rule on Warden Dyer of the penitentiary returnable in two weeks, for him to show cause why he should not be attached for contempt of court for failing to bring a prisoner before the court at 10 o'clock this morning. Hiram P. McNight, an attorney of Wood county, serving a three-year sentence for obtaining money under false pretences, seeks to secure his release on a writ of habeas corpus. He was to have appeared before the court at 10 o'clock to-day, but Warden Dyer failed to bring him.

SUICIDED WHILE INSANE.

Ralph Lockwood Ends His Life in a Cistern.

A Prominent Man of Erie County Who Labored Under a Strange Delusion.

Norwalk, O., Oct. 7.—(Special.)—Ralph Lockwood, for many years a prominent and leading business man of Milan, Erie county, committed suicide last night by drowning himself in the cistern at the rear of his store building.

He was a soldier in the late war and contracted a disease which affected his mind. He has been in bad condition for the last 10 days, and got the idea during this crazy spell that he had cheated the government.

The last 10 days he lived on one cracker a day.

Several years ago he sent back considerable money to the government. He left quite an estate which he willed several weeks ago to his brother William.

Deceased was a brother of the late G. F. Lockwood, and cousin of the late J. C. Lockwood, well known in Chicago and along the lakes.

THE COON FAMILY.

Interesting Story of Their Habits and Characteristics.

Raccoons are carniverous animals, and sometimes they eat poultry, but mice, small birds, eggs, insects, fruits, nuts, maize, frogs, crustaceous mollusks and fish are all welcome food to them. They are very expert in breaking down stalks of corn and stripping the husks from the corn, using their paws like hands. They swim well and cross rivers without hesitation, but they cannot dive and pursue fish under the water as otters do. They readily, however, obtain crawfish and mussels. They like to play in shallow water and overturn stones in search of crawfish, and they have a singular habit of washing their food in water before eating it. There is a southern species called the crab-eating raccoon, but, as we see, that term could, in fact, also be applied to the northern kind. The southern one, as might be expected, has shorter fur, and it has also stronger teeth, but otherwise it is very like the northern kind, both in structure and habits. It is to be found all over South America as far south as Rio Negro.

Two beasts, closely allied to the raccoon, but more slender in build and with larger tails, are found—one in some parts of the United States and Mexico. It has been captured in Ohio and in Oregon northwest of Jacksonvillt. The other comes from Central America. Catamiztli was a name applied to this kind in Mexico, and it is also called cacomistle and the cat squirrel by the Texans. Its real relationship to the raccoon was long unsuspected, as it was taken to be one form of the very different group of civets. These two beasts go more on the tips of their toes than do the raccoons. They are readily tamed, and are made pets of by the miners of California. They dwell in woods and make a moss-lined nest in a hollow tree, and are often betrayed by chips of wood which they will gnaw off around the mouth of the hole they inhabit. Their food consists of small kinds of beasts and also insects. They are useful for destroying rats and mice, but are very destructive to poultry, and are naturally bold and will fight furiously with claws and teeth. They prefer to inhabit woods traversed by water courses. Two more species of animals, also entirely confined to the New World, are known as coatimundis, or coatis, one of which is confined to Mexico and Central America, from Surinam to Paraguay.

They are not so thickly built as are the raccoons, and have longer and more slender and tapering tails, but their main peculiarity consists in the possession of a very elongated and mobile snout or short probosis. The coatis live mainly in trees, going about in troops of from about eight to twenty individuals. They are, also, like raccoons, indiscriminate feeders, eating fruits and insects, as well as birds and eggs.

South and Central America produce another kindred animal, though very distinct in aspect and organization. This is the kinkajou, or potto, a strictly forest creature, found in the warmer parts of South and Central America. It has a long body, but short limbs, which are well fitted for clinging to the trunks and branches of trees by the very strong and sharp claws with which all the toes are provided. But it is still better fitted for arboreal life by means of its tail, which is very long, and also strongly prehensile, like the tails of so many American monkeys. The kinkajou is of about the size of a rather small cat, and is clothed with short, dense fur of a uniform pale yellowish-brown color. It has a broad, round head, with very short ears and an extremely long and very extensile tongue, which is, no doubt, of much use to it in eating honey, of which it is very fond, although it will also devour eggs and small birds and beasts. It is a nocturnal animal, of rather a gentle disposition, and it is easily tamed. In captivity it will live on oranges and bananas, which it eats greedily. It is not uncommonly found in holes of trees, where it lies concealed by day, issuing forth at night in pursuit of prey. Its woolly fur is much valued, and its skins are brought to market. Dampier in his "Voyage" says: "The flesh is good, sweet and wholesome meat. We skin and roast it, and then we call it pig, and I think it eats as well." There is yet another exclusively American animal—another sort of cacomistle, or cat squirrel, about which a few words must be said. There are two kinds, which come from Costa Rica and Equador respectively. Of one kind only the skull is known, but the other has a very long body and tail and short legs, and from its form and coloration it is so like a kinkajou that the Indians who accompanied its discoverer, the collector, Mr. Buckley, actually mistook it for that animal, although the snout is longer, relatively, and the head less rounded. An English naturalist, Mr. Oldfield Thomas, who has figured it, considers it to be a real case of mimicry. He observes, however, that it is very difficult to understand what benefit to the creature it can be to be mistaken for the kinkajou, though a knowledge of its habits when gained may explain this.

Thus the raccoon is a common familiar representation of a small group of quadrupeds almost entirely confined to America, and which are beasts of prey in deed, but, as it were, of a mild and moderate kind, forming a sort of intermediate group between the more predaceous families, such as those which respectively contain the tiger, the wolf, the grizzly bear, and the weazel. The raccoon tribe, or raccoon family, has, however, a representative in the Old World, which is found in the Southeastern Himalayas at from 7,000 to 12,000 feet above the sea. It is known as the panda, is rather larger than a cat, and has semi-retractile claws. Its fur is of a rich reddish-brown color, with the under part of the body the darkest, and its long tail has dark annulations. It lives mainly on fruit and other vegetable substances, such as acorns, sprouts of bamboo, roots, etc., and really eats flesh, although it is said to take insects. It frequents the woods of rocky regions. It is not a strictly nocturnal creature, although it sleeps much by day, coiled up like a cat, roaming around each morning and evening. None of its senses are acute, and it is easily caught, being neither cunning nor ferocious. It drinks by inserting its lips in the fluid. The panda is easily tamed, but cannot endure either much heat or much cold. The young are born in a very helpless state, and long remain hidden in the nest placed in a hollow tree or in the fissure of some rock. It is a very interesting fact that a creature of this kind lived in England in the later tertiary times, and thus the present scattered distribution of the raccoon family is bridged over by the help of fossil remains, just as is the present scattered distribution of the family of tapirs among the hoofed beasts.

The raccoon tribe has been often supposed to be more nearly allied to the bears than to any other group of flesh-eating beasts, a relationship we much doubt. Whatever may be the value of this supposition, however, the Rev. Pere David discovered in 1869, in the almost inaccessible mountains of Moopin in Thibet, a creature which, though it has a very short tail, is in some respects like the panda, though of the size of a small brown bear. It is said to feed principally on vegetable substances, such as bamboos and the roots of varioes plants.

The raccoon, absolutely peculiar to America, is a stoutly built quadruped, says the New York Sun, although its coat of long coarse hair maakes it look yet stouter than it really is. It is about the size of a badger, and has a sharp-pointed muzzle, rather short ears and a moderately long, bushy, but cylindrically shaped tail, marked with black and white rings. The general color of its hair is grayish brown and there is a light-colored patch over either eye and on the side of the muzzle. The limbs are of medium length and each paw has five toes. Those of the forepaw can be stretched wide apart, and all the digits have arched and pointed claws which are not retractable, like those of a cat. When standing, the soles of the feet are wholly applied to the ground, so that the animal is what is called plantigrade, although in walking the heel is somewhat raised. Its grinding or molar teeth are mostly broad and rather flat, with moderate prominences, and no remarkably sharp blades adapted for cutting flesh.

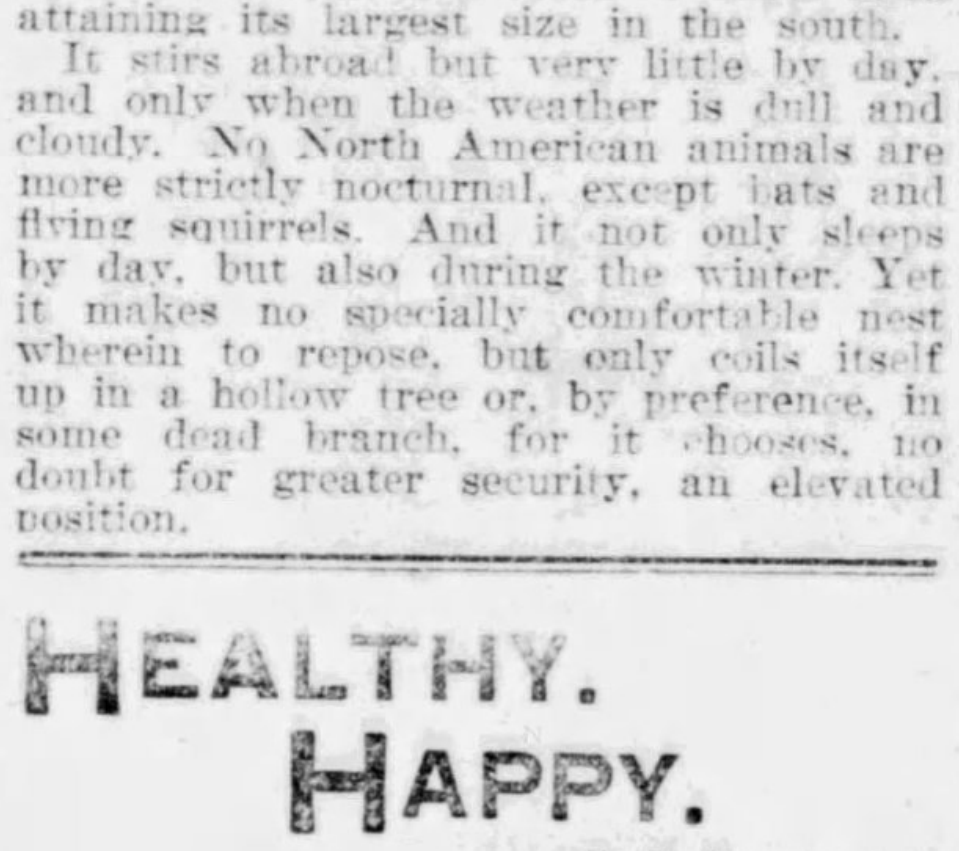
Its name of raccoon, familiarly abbreviated into coon, is a corruption of its Indian designation, arathcone. It can make a good fight, an old coon being a tough match for an average dog. Though very sly, raccoons are caught in traps. They are swift runners and if pursued take to a tree. The raccon, though capable of being made a pet of cannot be let loose with impunity on account of its great curiosity, which leads it to find its way into the house and examine everything. It is very fond of sweets, and will remove covers from dishes, corks from bottles, and soon learn to unlatch doors. Its natural range extends all over the United States, both north to Alaska and south to Costa Rica attaining its largest size in the south.

It stirs abroad but very little by day, and only when the weather is dull and cloudy. No North American animals are more strictly nocturnal, except bats and flying squirrels. And it not only sleeps by day, but also during the winter. Yet it makes no specially comfortable nest wherein to repose, but only coils itself up in a hollow tree or, by preference, in some dead branch, for it chooses, no doubt for greater security, an elevated position.

HEALTHY. HAPPY. WHY?



Is he a bright child? Does he look healthy and happy? He is bright, and he is both healthy and happy. He is the little son of Mrs. Henry T. Bowers, wife of the well-known contractor and builder, who resides in Dorchester avenue, South Boston. Mrs. Bowers has had quite an experience with her children, which experience we give in her own words, as follows:

"I have a little boy two and one-half years of age, the perfect picture of rugged health, and also a little girl of four. I attribute their good health and good temper to the use of Dr. Hand's Remedies.

I have used, as occasion required, the entire line, and have had very marked results from the Colic Cure, Cough and Croup Medicine, and the Pleasant Physic. I have never had any but good result from the use of any of them."

No mother would make a statement like the above unless she knew wholly whereof she affirmed.

THE INVISIBLE ARMY.

From the earlist period, the idea has prevailed of a mysterious, unseen enemy to the human race warring perpetually against health and life. In the days when superstition reigned supreme, this enemy was held to be evil spirits with which the atmosphere was supposed at all times to swarm.

Relief was sought, therefore, through charms, incantations and propitiatory offerings. Under the influence of civilization this theory has disappeared, and with the light of modern science this invisible army and enemy has been exposed to view—a mighty host indeed, which no man can number. This army is composed of Micro-organisms, or microbes. They are among the most minute bodies made visible by the microscope, but their increase is so rapid that unless checked by want of nutriment, they would in a few years take possession of the whole earth, to the exclusion of all other life.

A large proportion of this army is harmless, the poisonous part of it being distinguished as Pathogenic Microbes.

Some conception of the ravages of this mighty army of pathogenic microbes may be had from the general statement, that they are "the cause of four-fifths of all the diseases of the human family—that they destroy more lives than war, famine, fire, murder and shipwreck combined—and that they actually abbreviate the average term of human life by three-fourths." This army is divided into many sections, each formed of separate and distinct species, their manner of attack being various. They obtain access to the blood through the skin, through the air we breathe, the water we drink, and through inoculation.

But there is still another method of attack, namely: the dissemination through the circulation of the blood, of deadly poisons. These products of the pathogenic microbes, called ptomaines, tend not only to destroy the life of the person infected, but result finally in the destruction of the microbes which produce them. This accounts for the self-limitation of infectious diseases when not fatal, such as measles, small pox, etc.

There are diseases, however, such as Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, and their results and sequences, the limitation of which has hardly yet been fixed. The old treatment of mercury and potash would at best only hold the symptoms of these diseases in check, hoping that the pathogenic microbes might be destroyed by their own virus. This may happen in a term of years, but in the meantime the treatment kills both the microbes and the patient.

S.S.S. has for fifty years been forcing out these pathogenic microbes from the blood, through the pores of the skin, thus curing the disease, and at the same time building up the general health of the patient. When SWIFT'S SPECIFIC enters the blood, the pathogenic microbes take their departure through the pores of the skin, the poison is eliminated, and the patient is well. That the germs of these diseases are expelled from the body through the pores of the skin, there can be no sort of doubt, as it has been demonstrated and settled beyond controversy by distinguished micrologists, and as S. S. S. acts directly through the skin, there can be no doubt of the way in which it has cured thousands, and is destined to cure millions yet unborn.

We will mail our Treatise on the Blood to all applicants, FREE.

THE WATER WORKS TRUSTEES.

Regular Monthly Meeting of the Board.

The board of water works trustees held a long session last evening and transacted a large amount of business, besides spending considerable time discussing numerous matters.

Furniture for the new office, when the board moves next door, was discussed and referred to Superintendent Cotter and Secretary Eistell.

A resolution was adopted providing that after January 1 the minimum annual charge for service, where a meter is used, shall be $10 where the meter is owned by the board, and $6 where the meter is owned by the consumer. This rescinds a resolution adopted some time ago fixing the minimum rate at $6 whether the meter was owned by the consumer or the board. Meters will be sold at cost.

A number of petitions for extensions of mains were considered, and much routine business was passed upon. Consideration of the plans for the new building and other improvements at the pumping station was postponed until Thursday morning, when the board will hold a special meeting in J. D. Cook's office for this purpose.

THIS IS VALUABLE NEWS.

There are hundreds of our people who are suffering from lingering diseases who have not received benefit from their family physicians. Such sufferers should write a description of their cases to the famous Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th street, New York, the discoverer of the renowned remedy, Dr. Greene's Nervura, and successful specialist in the cure of all forms of nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted free of charge—that is, a full description of the case should be written him, and he will return his diagnosis of the case, whether curable, and advice in regard to treatment, without charge. In his carefully considered answer he will fully explain your disease and give you a perfect understanding of all its symptoms, free of any expense.

Dr. Greene has devoted special attention to treatment through letter correspondence, and his success in the cure of this class of diseases by his harmless vegetable remedies, is without a parallel. As consultation is thus entirely free, sufferers in our vicinity should seize this opportunity which affords an almost certainty of being cured.

Brazil's first electric railroad will soon be in operation in the city of Bahia. It will be a narrow gauge passenger road one and a half miles long. The whole plant and equipment were made in this country and shipped a short time ago. It is a sample installment, and if the Brazilians are pleased with the electric method of transportation, a much longer road will be built.

SOME THINGS

Are cheap because they are low priced, others are not. If you buy a Banner Lamp you get it cheap, for the reason that it is strictly first-class in every particular, yet owing to the immense number made, can be sold at a low price. Don't fail to investigate its merits.

The steady trade at our black goods counter is evidence that our prices are right. LAMSON BROTHERS.

Peaches treated in this way will keep for several years and then work up into preserves, jam and marmalade.

The many remarkable cures of catarrh effected by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is conclusive proof that this loathsome and dangerous disease is one of the blood, only needing such a searching and powerful alterative to thoroughly eradicate it.

Settlements arise, prosper and decay. It appears that the Dutch East Indies are much less prosperous than formerly. On account of bad seasons and deficient harvests the coffee plantations have ceased to yield the great crops of previous years, and it seems to be impossible to find a crop which can readily be substituted for coffee.
